

PROJECT MUSE®

Screening Auschwitz

Haltof, Marek

Published by Northwestern University Press

Haltof, Marek.

Screening Auschwitz: Wanda Jakubowska's The Last Stage and the Politics of Commemoration.

Evanston: Northwestern University Press, 2018.

Project MUSE., <https://muse.jhu.edu/>.

➔ For additional information about this book

<https://muse.jhu.edu/book/56984>

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I received a great deal of support during the preliminary planning and researching of this project. I gratefully acknowledge the help of Northern Michigan University in Marquette for supporting my research and this work with a generous grant—the Peter White Scholar Award—and with a sabbatical leave. I benefited greatly from an excellent collection of books at NMU Olson Library—The Holocaust Collection, presented to the university in honor of Lynn Cohodas Stahl and Nancy Cohodas Oberman.

Several colleagues at Northern Michigan University assisted in the preparation of this book in many ways at various stages of the work, among them Carol Strauss-Sotiropoulos, Jim McCommons, Gabriel Brahm, Stephen Burn (now at the University of Glasgow), Caroline Krzakowski, and Robert Whalen. Special thanks go to David Boe for his unvarying assistance regarding the complexities of the English language. Also, I am grateful to Ben Talarico and Benjamin Van Howe for their editorial assistance.

In the course of researching and writing this book, I received help from numerous individuals. Special thanks go to Adam Wyżyński and Krzysztof Berłowski at the National Film Archive (Filmoteka Narodowa) in Warsaw for their kind assistance. In addition, I would like to thank scholars who assisted in the preparation of this book in various ways: Ewelina Nurczyńska-Fidelska, Jolanta Lemann, Piotr Zwierzchowski, Mirosław Przyłipiak, Michał Oleszczyk, Stefan Czyżewski, and Stuart Liebman. My thanks also to Axel Braisz at the International Tracing Service in Bad Arolsen in Germany and Diane Afoumado at the Holocaust Survivors and Victims Resource Center (United States Holocaust Memorial Museum). I am very much indebted to Jacek Lachendro at the Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum, who generously introduced me to its archival collections and supplied me with valuable information. At the museum, I also thank Wojciech Płosa, head of the archive, and Edyta Chowaniec, who is in charge of its audiovisual collection, as well as Paweł Hudzik, head of the State Archive in Katowice, division in Oświęcim.

I am very thankful to Professor Alina Madej, Katarzyna Rudomino (Wanda Jakubowska's granddaughter), and Roman Dziewoński (actor Edward Dziewoński's son) for stimulating conversations and help with archival materials. Also, my sincere thanks go to Stuart Liebman and Marat Grinberg—two readers for Northwestern University Press.

I extend my sincere gratitude to Phyllis Lassner, editor of the series Cultural Expressions of World War II and the Holocaust: Preludes, Responses, Memory at Northwestern University Press, for her continuous encouragement and scholarly support.