

PROJECT MUSE®

Memory

Radstone, Susannah, Schwarz, Bill

Published by Fordham University Press

Radstone, Susannah and Bill Schwarz.

Memory: Histories, Theories, Debates.

Fordham University Press, 2010.

Project MUSE.muse.jhu.edu/book/66748.

➔ For additional information about this book

<https://muse.jhu.edu/book/66748>

Acknowledgments

We are very grateful indeed to our consulting editors—Sally Alexander, Howard Caygill, Stephan Feuchtwang, Kate Hodgkin, Jo Labanyi, Constantina Papoulias, and Richard Terdiman—who helped guide us at the outset of this complex project. Richard Terdiman, an enthusiast from the beginning, was responsible for putting us in contact with Helen Tartar at Fordham University Press, an introduction for which we will be eternally thankful, for Helen has proved an ideal editor. We are grateful, too, to Katrina Clifford, an early inspiration for the book; to Richard Kearney, who proved supportive at a critical time; to Mary Stevens, for her help in chasing the English references for Chapter 5; to Janet Reed for producing the index at speed and to Felicity Collins and Lynne Segal, who at the end of the project both commented on a draft of the introduction. Tom Lay at Fordham supplied copy editing of the highest order, the product of immense labor, for which our profound thanks; and thanks as well to the managing editor at Fordham, Eric Newman.

Steven Rose's chapter was first published in Harriet Harvey Wood and A. S. Byatt's edited collection Memory and is reproduced here with permission of the author and of Chatto and Windus. Keith Ansell-Pearson's chapter on Bergson, commissioned for the present book, first appeared in a different version as his introduction to the 2007 Palgrave edition of Bergson's Mind-Energy and is published here with the permission of the author. We thank all concerned.

Institutional support came from the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of East London and from the School of English and Drama at Queen Mary, University of London.

We owe great thanks, too, to our contributors, a number of whom we have met only virtually. All responded with enthusiasm to our initial requests, and all worked hard to bring the book to fruition.

Memory

