

Special Announcement

In December 2015 the Editor was notified that Diálogo had received the Phoenix Award, granted each year by the Council of Editors of Learned Journals (CELJ) for editorial and design revitalization/transformation of a journal over the previous three-year period.

We are honored to have been selected by the judges for this award. The Editor and Assistant Editor have enthusiastically undertaken extensive work to highlight new research by scholars and the work of creative artists in Latin America and the U.S. We acknowledge the dedication to Diálogo's enhancement by local advisory committee and Editorial Board members, guest thematic editors, and our Creative and Book/Film Review Editors. It is fitting that this award should arrive as we complete work on our most extensive issue on new Indigenous production.
