The Middle East Journal

Board of Advisory Editors
Madawi Al-Rasheed        Frederic C. Hof
Omar Ashour              Marc Lynch
Henri Barkey             J. E. Peterson
Sheila Carapico          Michael W. S. Ryan
Michael Collins Dunn     Sabri Sayari
Anoush Ehteshami         Samer S. Shehata
Jean-Pierre Filu         Robert Springborg
F. Gregory Gause, III    Gareth Stansfield
Michael M. Gunter         Göñül Tol
Steven Heydemann          Edward (Ned) Walker
J. N. C. Hill             Marvin G. Weinbaum
Paul Salem, Chair
Ross Harrison, Co-Chair

For more than 70 years, those with an interest in the Middle East — in the United States and abroad — have joined the Middle East Institute, attracted by its aim of fostering American understanding of the region and by its objective position on the controversies of the area. In addition to a subscription to The Middle East Journal, membership entitles an individual to a number of other unique benefits. The Institute welcomes your membership application and/or contribution to further its work.

For more information, please visit www.mei.edu/membership

The Middle East Journal is indexed in ABC POL SCI, A Bibliography of Contents: Political Science and Government, CrossRef, Current Contents: Social and Behavioral Sciences, Middle East: Abstracts and Index, PAIS International in Print, Quarterly Index Islamicus, Social Sciences Index, United States Political Science Documents, and World Affairs Online (WAO). Book reviews are indexed in Book Review Digest and Book Review Index. Articles are abstracted in Historical Abstracts and International Political Science Abstracts. The Middle East Journal is available on Project MUSE, JSTOR, and Proquest.

Cover photo:
Children of Iraqi host community and Syrian Kurdish refugees attending school in the Duhok area in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq, November 4, 2015.

Source:
Noe Falk Nielsen/NurPhoto via Getty Images