Anthropological Linguistics provides a forum for the full range of scholarly study of the languages and cultures of the peoples of the world, especially the native peoples of the Americas. Embracing the field of language and culture broadly defined, the editors welcome articles and research reports addressing cultural, historical, and philological aspects of linguistic study, including analyses of texts and discourse; studies of semantic systems and cultural classifications; onomastic studies; ethnohistorical papers that draw significantly on linguistic data; studies of linguistic prehistory and genetic classification, both methodological and substantive; discussions and interpretations of archival material; edited historical documents; and contributions to the history of the field.

Copyright © 2021 Trustees of Indiana University

Published by the American Indian Studies Research Institute and the Department of Anthropology at Indiana University, in partnership with the University of Nebraska Press.

Anthropological Linguistics is also available at Project MUSE: http://muse.jhu.edu.

Subscription Information

Anthropological Linguistics (ISSN 0003-5483) is published quarterly by the University of Nebraska Press. For current subscription rates, please visit our website at: www.nebraskapress.unl.edu.

If ordering by mail, please make checks payable to the University of Nebraska Press and send to:

University of Nebraska Press
1225 L Street, Suite 200
Lincoln, NE 68588-0630 USA

Telephone: 402-472-8536

All inquiries regarding subscriptions, change of address, advertising, and other business communications should be directed to the University of Nebraska Press at the address above. Requests for permission to reprint material from Anthropological Linguistics should be submitted via the online form located at https://nebraskapressjournals.unl.edu/permissions/.

Information for Contributors

Manuscripts to be considered for publication should be sent as e-mail attachments in PDF format to <anthling@indiana.edu>; alternatively, they may be submitted in three paper copies. Printed manuscripts, exchange journals, and books for review should be sent to:

Anthropological Linguistics
Indiana University
Student Building 130
701 E. Kirkwood Avenue
Bloomington, IN 47405-7100 USA

Additional information for contributors may be found on the journal’s website: <www.indiana.edu/~anthling>.

Manuscript Form. Manuscripts must be double-spaced throughout (including quotations, tables, references, and notes) with at least one inch margins on 8½” x 11” or A4 paper and printed on one side of the sheet only. All pages must be continuously paginated.

Text. Anthropological Linguistics follows The Chicago Manual of Style. For exemplification of all matters of style, authors should consult a recent issue of the journal. A style sheet is available on the journal’s website.

Abstract. Each article manuscript must have at its outset, immediately after the title and author’s name, an abstract no longer than 100 words summarizing the conceptual content of the article.

Citations. Citations in the text are indicated parenthetically. When an author’s name is mentioned in the text, dates and pages immediately follow the author’s name, e.g., Boas (1940:2–35). Otherwise, an author’s name, dates, and pages appear within parentheses, usually at the end of a sentence, e.g., (Boas 1940:2–35).

Notes. Explanatory notes appear at the end of the text, immediately preceding the list of references.

References. Complete references to all works cited in an article or review should appear in a bibliography at the end of the manuscript. This section, entitled References, should include only works cited in the manuscript. The style follows a modified version of that used in the American Anthropologist, listing publication dates indented under authors’ names, with titles and publication information blocked to the right of the date.