Submission guidelines
The European Journal of Language Policy/Revue européenne de politique linguistique is a peer-reviewed journal published by Liverpool University Press in association with the European Language Council/Conseil Européen pour les Langues and edited by Professor Michael Kelly (University of Southampton, UK).

The Journal aims to address major developments in language policy from a European perspective, regarding multilingualism and the diversity of languages as valuable assets in the culture, politics and economics of twenty-first-century societies. The journal’s primary focus is on Europe, broadly understood, but it is alert to policy developments in the wider world.

The journal invites proposals or manuscripts of articles studying any aspect of language policy, and any aspect of the area of languages for which policies may need to be developed or changed. It particularly welcomes proposals that provide greater understanding of the factors which contribute to policy-making, and proposals that examine the effects of particular policies on language learning or language use.

The journal will present relevant policy documents and reports, particularly where these contribute to debates and decision-making on language policy in Europe and elsewhere. It invites suggestions for such documents.

Articles and other items will be accepted in any European language. Abstracts of articles will be provided in English and a second relevant language. Materials may be derived from or refer to texts in other languages.

Articles or proposals should be emailed to Prof. Michael Kelly: M.H.Kelly@soton.ac.uk.

Open Access Policy
All Liverpool University Press journals comply with RCUK, Wellcome Trust and other funding agency mandates for Open Access publication of work they support. LUP offers Gold Open Access, whereby an APC (Article Publication Charge) is paid to support the immediate release of an article under the CC-BY licence. To discuss making your article available freely through Gold or Green Open Access, please contact Clare Hooper, Head of Journals (clare.hooper@liv.ac.uk or +44 [0]151 794 3135).
