China: An International Journal is an internationally refereed journal published by NUS Press, the National University of Singapore, on behalf of the East Asian Institute. It comes out four times a year, every February, May, August and November. EAI invites submission of theoretically- and empirically-based research articles (up to 10,000 words including footnotes and 100-word abstract) on contemporary China, including Hong Kong, Macau and Taiwan, in the fields of politics, economics, society, geography, law, culture and international relations. Review articles (10,000-word review, including footnotes, of three or more books on the same topic), and policy comments and research notes (1,000–5,000 words including footnotes and a 100-word abstract) are also welcome. Manuscripts oriented towards East Asian specialists are preferred, but pieces written for a wider audience will also be considered.

Submissions should be fully documented. All footnotes must conform to the stylesheet provided on the CIJ website (see below). Material appearing in China: An International Journal does not represent the views of the Editorial Board or the publishers, and responsibility for opinions expressed and the accuracy of facts published in the articles rests solely with the individual authors.

All editorial correspondence should be sent to:
