

ARRIS

About ARRIS

Arris is a peer-reviewed journal that publishes original scholarship on all aspects of the history of architecture and landscape, with particular interest in new perspectives on the American South. Founded in 1989, Arris is published annually by the Southeast Chapter of the Society of Architectural Historians (SESAH). SESAH promotes scholarship on architecture and related subjects and serves as a forum for ideas among architectural historians, architects, preservationists, and others involved in professions related to the built environment.

Articles and Field Notes

Arris accepts submissions for articles and field notes on a rolling basis. Articles generally run from 5,000–7,000 words and are blind peer-reviewed. They should demonstrate a rigorous mastery over the scholarly literature, research methods, field work (if applicable), and available primary sources of the subject. Field notes are shorter contributions, approximately 2,500 words in length, and are blind peer-reviewed. These notes discuss significant ongoing field work or other research of interest to SESAH members. Submissions should follow Arris guidelines and should be sent to the editors. Complete information can be found at <http://www.sesah.org>.

Book Reviews

Books selected for review in Arris represent outstanding scholarly contributions about all aspects and regions of the built environment, with particular interest in new perspectives on the American South. Reviews generally do not exceed 1,500 words and should follow Arris guidelines. Reviews are solicited by the Book Review Editor, who can be contacted to propose a book for review or to express interest in becoming a reviewer. Complete information can be found at <http://www.sesah.org>.

Queries

Editorial inquiries and submissions may be sent to the editors at their email addresses. Inquiries regarding subscriptions, back issues, and address changes may be addressed to the Membership Coordinator at membership@sesah.org. General inquiries may be sent to info@sesah.org.

Copyright © 2021

The Southeast Chapter of the Society of Architectural Historians. All rights reserved. Articles, field notes, and book reviews published in Arris may not be reproduced in any form, in whole or in part, including illustrations, except for classroom and noncommercial use (beyond the copying permitted by sections 107 and 108 of the U.S. Copyright Law), without obtaining written permission from SESAH. For additional information, see <http://www.sesah.org>.

Since 2019, Arris (ISSN 1048-5945) has been published in partnership with the University of North Carolina Press. Print and digital subscriptions for individuals are a benefit of SESAH membership; for institutions the annual subscription rate is $50 for either print or digital and $60 for both. UNC Press has a partnership with Duke University Press for subscription fulfillment. For more information contact 888-651-0122 (toll-free in the US and Canada), 919-688-5134, or subscriptions@dukeupress.edu.

Front Cover

Library and School of Nations Building (view from gully bridge), Principia College, pastel rendering, proposed for Elsay, Illinois College campus, Bernard Maybeck, March 1934. (Photo: The Principia).

Credits

Editors

Mark Reinberger
College of Environment and Design
University of Georgia
reinberg@uga.edu

Vandana Baweja
School of Architecture
University of Florida
vbaweja@ufl.edu

Book Review Editor

Bryan Norwood
School of Architecture
University of Texas at Austin
bookrevieweditor@sesah.org

Composer

Alpha Design & Composition
Pittsfield, New Hampshire

Copy Editor

Kathleen Crosby
Chapel Hill, North Carolina

Printer

Sheridan, Hanover, Pennsylvania