NOTE TO AUTHORS

The Editor and Editorial Board of Philosophy East and West welcome specialized articles in Asian philosophy and articles that seek to illuminate, in a comparative manner, the distinctive characteristics of the various philosophical traditions in the East and West. They especially welcome those articles that exhibit the relevance of philosophy for the art, literature, science, and social practice of Asian civilizations, and those original contributions to philosophy that work from an intercultural basis.

All articles and features are printed in English. If a contribution is written in another language, the original and an English translation are requested. Manuscripts should be 5,000 to 9,000 words including references and notes.

Style follows The Chicago Manual of Style, 16th edition (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2010). Authors are responsible for the accuracy of all quotations and for supplying complete references. All copy, including block quotations, end notes, and reference lists, must be double-spaced.

All manuscripts should be sent as a PDF, with all information identifying the author removed, to pew@hawaii.edu.
