STATEMENT OF PUBLICATION ETHICS

The Journal of the Ottoman and Turkish Studies Association (JOTSA) is committed to maintaining the highest standards in publication ethics and academic professionalism. We publish new research, as well as book reviews (commissioned only), conference reports, notes, and announcements. All article-length submissions are evaluated for publication by means of a rigorous, double-blind peer-review process. JOTSA supports ethical research practices, including confidentiality, consent, and other field-specific special research requirements, and is committed to transparency, diversity, and academic integrity. Our publication guidelines conform to those of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) (<http://publicationethics.org>); see the COPE Code of Conduct for Journal Publishers.

The Ottoman and Turkish Studies Association thanks the Department of Near Eastern Studies at Princeton University for their generous financial assistance toward the publication of the Journal.
