

Early Medieval China

Editor:

- Xiaofei Tian (Harvard University, USA) stian@fas.harvard.edu

Social Media Editor:

- Lu Kou (Columbia University, USA)

Editorial Board:

- Robert F. Campany (Vanderbilt University, USA)
- Cynthia Chennault (University of Florida, USA)
- J. Michael Farmer (University of Texas, USA)
- WU Hung (University of Chicago, USA)
- Keith Knapp (The Citadel, USA)
- Antje Richter (University of Colorado, USA)

President, Early Medieval China Group:

- Antje Richter (University of Colorado, USA)

Treasurer, Early Medieval China Group:

- Matthew Wells (University of Kentucky, USA)

Board of Directors, Early Medieval China Group:

- Sarah M. Allen (Williams College, USA)
- Jack W. Chen (University of Virginia, USA)
- Meow Hui Goh (Ohio State University, USA)
- April D. Hughes (Boston University, USA)
- Armin Selbitschka (Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich, Germany)
- Wai Kit Wicky Tse (The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong SAR)
- Leslie V. Wallace (Coastal Carolina University, USA)

Aims and scope

Aims

Established in 1994, Early Medieval China is the world's only journal dedicated to the transformative period roughly between the end of the Han and beginning of the Tang dynasty (the second through the seventh century). This interdisciplinary, peer-reviewed journal explores all aspects of Chinese history, literature, society, religion and thought, and material culture of China's early medieval age.

Scope

- History and culture of the Southern and Northern Dynasties, as well as relevant developments during the late Han and early Tang
- Belles-lettres and literary criticism
- Religious and philosophical movements
- Ethnic minorities and interactions among Chinese and non-native dynasties
- Art and archaeology
- Scientific and technological inventions

Submitting to Early Medieval China

For more information about the journal and guidance on how to submit, please see www.tandfonline.com/yemc

Society membership

Individuals who wish to subscribe can join the Early Medieval China Group to receive the journal as part of their annual membership. Visit: <http://www.earlymedievalchinagroup.org/>