

JOURNAL OF RELIGION AND POPULAR CULTURE

The Journal of Religion and Popular Culture is a peer-reviewed journal committed to the academic exploration, analysis and interpretation, from a range of disciplinary perspectives, of the interrelations and interactions between religion and religious expression and popular culture, broadly defined as the products of contemporary mass culture.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

DAVID FELTMATE, Auburn University at Montgomery

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

FRANCIS STEWART, University of Stirling

EDITORIAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE

JASON BIVINS, North Carolina State University

RUDY BUSTO, University of California, Santa Barbara

EDEN CONSENSTEIN, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

MARY HALE, Saint Mary's University

GARY LADERMAN, Emory University

ERIC MICHAEL MAZUR, Virginia Wesleyan University

SEAN MCCLOUD, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

ELIJAH SIEGLER, College of Charleston

SARAH MCFARLAND TAYLOR, Northwestern University

ALANA M. VINCENT, Umeå University