The Toronto School of Theology is a federation of seven theological colleges in Toronto and four affiliated institutions, one each in Toronto, Waterloo, London, and Montague, PEI. It is itself fully accredited by the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada, as is each of the seven individual colleges which together constitute the federation.

TST offers a full range of professional and academic degrees, each designed for a specific purpose within the framework of the theological education. Member colleges award their M.Div., M.T.S., M.A.M.S., M.P.S., M.R.E., Th.M., D.Min., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees conjointly with the University of Toronto, under a Memorandum of Agreement between the colleges and the University in effect since 1978.

TST represents an unparalleled undertaking in ecumenical, theological education. Bringing together a wide variety of Christian traditions, this federation offers an exceptional opportunity to study and understand the complexity of the Christian religious experience.
