TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE v

CHAPTER

I. GERMANY: ONE OR MANY 3
   The Germanys
   The "Belated" German Nation
   Planning Germany's Dismemberment
   The Potsdam Conference
   From Quadripartite to Bipartite Germany
   The Battle for Berlin—A Battle for Germany
   German Governments in the West and East
   European Integration, Rearmament, and Reunification
   East-West Exchanges on Germany's Unity
   West Germany Joins the Atlantic Alliance
   The Spirit of Geneva and Reunification
   Stalemate over Germany

II. THE REUNIFICATION QUESTION IN WEST GERMAN POLITICS 49
   The Basic Law and German Unity
   The Federal Government and the Reunification Issue
   The CDU/CSU and Reunification
   The Social Democratic Party and Reunification
   Bipartisan Reunification Policy
   The FDP and the Reunification
   After Erhard—The Grand Coalition
   The Splinter-Parties and Reunification
III. WEST GERMANS AND THE REUNIFICATION QUESTION

The West German Elite and Reunification
Advocates of a Recognition of the Status Quo
Ambassador Kroll's Individual Initiative
The Churches and Reunification
Mass Opinion and Reunification
Was Starlinger Right?

IV. EAST GERMANY AND REUNIFICATION

Recognition of the German Democratic Republic
The Hallstein Doctrine
The SED and Reunification
The D.D.R. and Reunification
Reunification and the East Germans

V. BERLIN AND THE REUNIFICATION PROBLEM

Status of Berlin in Theory and Practice
The Second Battle for Berlin and the Wall
The Question of Access Routes to Berlin
After the Wall—Future of the Berlin Problem

VI. THE REUNIFICATION PROBLEM AND INTERNATIONAL POLITICS

Soviet Foreign Policy and the German Question
Poland, the Oder-Neisse Border, and Reunification
Reunification and East-Central Europe
The Western Powers and Reunification

VII. THE GERMAN PROBLEM OF THE MID-TWENTIETH CENTURY

The Meaning of Self-Determination and Reunification
The Moral Issue
The National Issue
The International Issue
Whither Germany?

BIBLIOGRAPHY

INDEX