NOTE

This is only the third time in this journal’s history that we have put out a special summer issue in addition to our usual two issues per year. The body of articles on “Premodern Food Studies: Practices and Ideologies” assembled by Emily Colbert Cairns of Salve Regina University merits this special treatment. The caliber of the submissions is admirably high and we are proud to present them to our readership.

This number is distributed without extra charge to all subscribers thanks to the generosity of major contributors.
