Contents

Acknowledgments, xi

Introduction, 1

PART I Confederate Men and Women during the Civil War

Chapter 1 A Burden Too Heavy to Bear, 23
  War Trauma, Suicide, and Confederate Soldiers

Chapter 2 A Dark Doom to Dread, 49
  Women, Suicide, and Suffering on the Confederate Homefront

PART II African American Southerners in Slavery and Freedom

Chapter 3 De Lan’ of Sweet Dreams, 85
  Suffering and Suicide among the Enslaved

Chapter 4 Somethin’ Went Hard agin Her Mind, 120
  Suffering, Suicide, and Emancipation

PART III Confederate Men and Women in the Aftermath of War

Chapter 5 The Accursed Ills I Cannot Bear, 151
  Confederate Veterans, Suicide, and Suffering in the Defeated South

Chapter 6 The Distressed State of the Country, 179
  Confederate Men and the Navigation of Economic, Political, and Emotional Ruin in the Postwar South

Chapter 7 All Is Dark before Me, 197
  Confederate Women and the Postwar Landscape of Suffering and Suicide
Chapter 8  Cumberer of the Earth, 235

The Secularization of Suffering and Suicide

Conclusion, 255

Notes, 263

Bibliography, 365

Index, 417