CONTENTS

List of Illustrations \hspace{1cm} vii

Acknowledgments \hspace{1cm} ix

Abbreviations \hspace{1cm} xi

Introduction \hspace{1cm} 3

Eric Ziolkowski

---

Part I. Literature

The Bonfire of the Genres: Kierkegaard’s Literary Kaleidoscope \hspace{1cm} 39

George Pattison

Kierkegaard’s Disruptions of Literature and Philosophy: Freedom, Anxiety, and Existential Contributions \hspace{1cm} 55

Edward F. Mooney

Kierkegaard’s Existential Play: Storytelling and the Development of the Religious Imagination in the Authorship \hspace{1cm} 71

Marcia C. Robinson

Kierkegaard’s Christian Bildungsroman \hspace{1cm} 85

Joakim Garff

---

Part II. Performing Arts

Beyond the Mask: Kierkegaard’s Postscript as Antitheatrical, Anti-Hegelian Drama \hspace{1cm} 99

Howard Pickett

A Theater of Ideas: Performance and Performativity in Kierkegaard’s Repetition \hspace{1cm} 115

Martijn Boven
Kierkegaard’s Notions of Drama and Opera: Molière’s Don Juan, Mozart’s Don Giovanni, and the Question of Music and Sensuousness

Nils Holger Petersen

“Let No One Invite Me, for I Do Not Dance”: Kierkegaard’s Attitudes toward Dance

Anne Margrete Fiskvik

Part III. Visual Arts and Film

Painting with Words: Kierkegaard and the Aesthetics of the Icon

Christopher B. Barnett

Kierkegaard’s Approach to Pictorial Art, and to Specimens of Contemporary Visual Culture

Ragni Linnet

Kierkegaard’s Concept of Inherited Sin: A Cinematic Illustration

Ronald M. Green

Part IV. Comparisons

The Moravian Origins of Kierkegaard’s and Blake’s Socratic Literature

James Rovira

Don Giovanni and Moses and Aaron: The Possibility of a Kierkegaardian Affirmation of Music

Peder Jothen

Kierkegaard, Dylan, and Masked and Anonymous Neighbor-Love

Jamie A. Lorentzen

Contributors

Index