Bibliography

Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich. Phenomenology of Spirit. Translated by Terry Pinkard. [online]. http://web.mac.com/titpaul/Site/Phenomenology_of_Spirit_page.html. This translation of the Phenomenology of Spirit is cited by paragraph numbers only (using the section sign).

BIBLIOGRAPHY

———. 1997. “Emotions as Judgements of Value and Importance.” In Relativism, Suffering, and Beyond, edited by P. Bilimoria and J. N. Mohanty. Oxford:
Oxford University Press.

Sceptical Mode in Modern Philosophy: Essays in Honor of Richard H. Popkin, Nijhoff.

University of New York Press.

Harvard University Press.

123, no. 4: 547–54.
———. 2005. “A Reading of Love in Hölderlin’s ‘Andenken.’” German Quarterly
78, no. 2: 192–206.

Pinkard, Terry. 2008. “What Is a ‘Shape of Spirit?”’ In Hegel’s Phenomenology of ———. 2007. “Symbolic, Classical, and Romantic Art.” In Hegel and the Arts, edited by Steven Houlgate. Evanston, Ill.: Northwestern University Press.
———. 2004. “Reason, Recognition, and Historicity.” In Subjektivität und Anerbridge University Press.

Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press.

Rajan, Tilottama. 2004. “(In)digestible Material: Illness and Dialectic in Hegel’s Philosophy of Nature.” In Cultures of Taste / Theories of Appetite: Eating Romantic-of Aesthetics.” In Questioning Romanticism, edited by John Beer, 155–78.
Baltimore, Md.: Johns Hopkins University Press.

Ravven, Heidi M. 1996. “Has Hegel Anything to Say to Feminists?” In Feminist In-University Park: Pennsylvania State University Press.

Reemtsma, Jan Philipp. 2008. Vertrauen und Gewalt: Versuch über eine besondere Kon-

New Haven, Conn.: Yale University Press.

