Contents

Introduction: On Being Open to Disruption ..................... 1
Margaret K. Nelson and Rosanna Hertz

Part I: Changing Subjects, Changing Relationships,
Changing Worlds

1. From a Study to a Journey: Holding an Ethnographic
   Gaze on Urban Poverty for Two Decades .................... 23
   Timothy Black

2. Conflicted Selves: Trust and Betrayal in Studying the Hare Krishna ..................................... 45
   E. Burke Rochford Jr.

3. Returns ............................................ 63
   Joanna Dreby

4. Studying My Hometown .................................. 85
   Albert Hunter

5. Breaching Boundaries and Dowsing for Stories on the Great Plains .................................... 100
   Karen V. Hansen

Part II: Changing Methods, Changing Frameworks

6. Disrupting Scholarship ................................. 119
   Susan E. Bell
7. A Sociology of Inclusion and Exclusion through the Lens of the Maid’s Daughter ........................ 141
   Mary Romero

8. Getting to the Dark Side of the Moon: Researching the Lives of Women in Cartography ..................... 152
   Will C. van den Hoonaard

9. Getting It Right ..................................... 161
   Pamela Stone

10. “Breakfast at Elmo’s”: Adolescent Boys and Disruptive Politics in the Kinscripts Narrative .............. 174
    Linda M. Burton and Carol B. Stack

Part III: Reflections on Disruptions: Time and Craft

11. History on a Slow Track ............................... 197
    Emily K. Abel

12. A Serendipitous Lesson: Or, How What We Do Shapes What We Know ............................... 205
    Margaret K. Nelson

13. Paying Forward and Paying Back ........................ 224
    Rosanna Hertz

14. Rethinking Families: A Slow Journey ..................... 241
    Naomi Gerstel

15. Time to Find Words ................................. 255
    Marjorie L. DeVault

16. The Days Are Long, but the Years Fly By: Reflections on the Challenges of Doing Qualitative Research  ........ 266
    Annette Lareau

Contributors .......................................... 279