Constructing Muslims in France

Published by Temple University Press

Constructing Muslims in France: Discourse, Public Identity, and the Politics of Citizenship.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/28381

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=3118197
Contents

Acknowledgments  ix
Abbreviations xiii

1 Introduction: Why Do We Ask Whether Muslims Can Be French? 1
2 Elusive Citizenship: The Consequences of an Undesirable Public Identity 23
3 Claiming Membership: French Muslim Identities, Political Goals, and Repertoires of Contention 47
4 Education: The (Undelivered?) Promise of Republican Equality 78
5 Employment: The Muslim Experience in (and out of) the Workplace 103
6 Housing: The Banlieues as a Geographic and Socially Constructed Place 126
7 The Contentious Concept of Frenchness: French Muslims Embracing, Reimagining, but Not Rejecting the Republican Triad 151

Appendix: Sample Questionnaire 175
Notes 183
References 193
Index 207