Widow's Tale, A
Hatch, Charles

Published by Utah State University Press

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/8844
Contents

Foreword vii
   Maureen Ursenbach Beecher
Preface ix
Introduction 1
Helen Mar Whitney's Family 37
1884: Horace Has Spent a Dreadful Night 43
1885: Oh! How I Feel My Loss—My Widowhood 61
1886: It Seemed Like a Dream That I Must Awake From 129
1887: I Woke Myself Sobbing Three Times 213
1888: This Valley Is Covered with Thick Fog To Day—Very Dreary 277
1889: A Beautiful White Coffin Held the Little Lamb & All Pronounced Him Beautiful 339
1890: A “Liberal” Gang of the Scum & Boys Passed Up Our Street 388
1891: E. M. Wells Came to See Us, & the House, at Evening— Thought It Lovely 428
1892: We’ve Got to Do Something to Keep Ourselves Out of Debt 484
1893: Mary . . . Gone to Chicago . . . We Can’t Afford to Go to the Saltair 527