   which several members of the colony participated.
Bandera County Library, Bandera, TX. Includes “An Act To Create The County Of Bandera,” 26 January 1856. More than twenty names of the petitioners are from the Lyman Wight colony.

Burnet County Archives, Burnet County Clerk’s Office, Hamilton, TX. Deed records, in which transactions of land for Wight’s cooperative take place.

Gillespie County Archives, Gillespie County Clerk’s Office, Fredericksburg, TX. Includes County Commissioners’ minutes, deed records, and marriage records.

Manuscript Census of 1850, Texas. East Texas Research Center.

Manuscript Census of 1860, Texas. East Texas Research Center.

Unpublished Manuscripts

Administrative Records for Baptism of the Dead, February and March 1851. Lyman Wight records in Zodiac. RLDS archives.

Hawes Family Patriarchal Blessing Book. RLDS archives.

Hawley, John Pierce. “Autobiography of John Hawley.” Unpublished manuscript, 1889. RLDS archives. An autobiographical work detailing Hawley’s experiences as a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Utah, including his firsthand observations concerning the Mountain Meadows Massacre in southern Utah in September 1857; the Wight colony in Wisconsin and Texas; and his affiliation and experiences with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Hawley, Pierce. Pierce Hawley to Jacob Croft, 6 June 1856. George Wise Cropper Collection 1823–98, LDS archives. Hawley affirms that he and Croft would be better off waiting for the patrilineal successors to Joseph Smith Jr. to assume leadership of Mormonism than to follow the lead of Brigham Young.

Hoffman, August. Memoirs, 6 October 1925. Barker American History Center, University of Texas.

Journal of the Branch of the Church of Christ in Pontiac, Michigan, Huron Branch, 1834. Handwritten manuscript. LDS archives.

Journal History of the Church collection of clippings, records, and notes. LDS Archives.

Kimball, Heber C. Journal. LDS archives.

Neighbors, Robert Simpson. Robert Simpson Neighbors Papers. Barker Texas History Center, University of Texas.

Pottawatamie High Council Conference Minutes 1848–51. LDS archives.

Pottawatomie High Priest Quorum Minutes 1849. LDS archives.

Scott, Jess W. “History of the Mormons in Clark County, Wisconsin.” Typescript manuscript, n.d. LDS archives. Scott, a local historian of the La Crosse area, cribbed heavily from other histories for this “history.”

Smith, Heman C. “Lyman Wight on Succession.” Typescript transcript of a document written in the hand of Heman C. Smith. RLDS Archives. Archives notes include: “The following was written en [sic] the hand of Heman C. Smith and signed by him. It is in very bad condition—yellow, tissue paper on which the ink ran or blurred as it was copied, possibly as is done in the letter press copy books. This typescript is being made February 17, 1978 by Madelon Brunson.” The original was destroyed when copying was completed.

Smith, Heman Hale. “The Lyman Wight Colony in Texas,” Manuscript prepared for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 1920. RLDS Archives. Heman H. Smith (son of Heman C. Smith, grandson of Spencer Smith, and great-grandson of Lyman Wight, all members of Zodiac), an apostle, member of the Seventy, and historian for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, prepared the manuscript from the Lyman Wight Journal, Spencer Smith Journal, and William Leyland Journal, all later destroyed by fire. He insisted polygamy was limited to the families of Lyman Wight, Orange Lysander Wight, and Ezra Chipman.

Snedaker, Morris J. Diary. LDS archives. A journal of LDS missionary travel and experiences in Texas before the Civil War.

Tickemeyer, Garland E. “Lyman Wight (a Description).” Photocopy of reconstructed typescript manuscript, 1961. RLDS archives. A recreation by Tickemyer of lost material given to him by Virginia Hay, ninety-one years of age during the original interview with Tickemyer in 1935 at Bandera County, Texas, recounting her young impressions at the age of twelve of Lyman Wight and his death. A hand-drawn map of Mormon Camp accompanies the recreation.

Voree (WI) Record. Photocopy of pen-written papers, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Strangites), extracts copied by W. D. Van Dyke Jr., 1909. LDS archives.

Wight, Lyman. “Revelation on Baptism for the Dead,” 10 February 1851. Iowa State Historical Society Archives. A statement of dedication to the principles of baptism for the dead and a format for recording the administration of the ordinance in the Zodiac temple.

———. Lyman Wight letterbook. RLDS archives.

Wight, Orange Lysander. “Recollections of Orange L. Wight, Son of Lyman Wight,” to Joseph I. Earl, 1903, Bunkersville, Nevada. The original was discovered in the St. George Temple, and a typescript copy prepared in 1966 by Winona Wittier and Viola W. Squires. Photocopy. LDS archives. A defense of LDS polygamy, testifying that Wight received the principle from Joseph Smith Jr. as well as from his father, Lyman Wight, and others.

Woodruff, Wilford. Diary. LDS archives.

Young, Brigham. Brigham Young Papers. LDS archives.

———. Manuscript History of Brigham Young. LDS archives.

Books

Bandera County History Book Committee. History of Bandera County, Texas. Dallas: Curtis Media, 1986. A compilation of genealogical and family histories pertaining to Bandera County, Texas.

Buenger, Walter L. Secession and the Union in Texas. Austin: University of Texas Press, 1984. Opens the modern examination into the disunionist consensus-making movement in antebellum Texas and the various opposition groups to a secessionist South.

Bunnell, Lafayette Houghton. Winona (We-no-nah) and Its Environs on the Mississippi in Ancient and Modern Days. For and under the auspices of the Winona County Old Settlers’ Association. Winona, MN: Jones and Kroeger, 1897.

Corrill, John. A Brief History of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Commonly Called Mormons): Including an Account of Their Doctrine and Discipline; With the Reasons of the Author for Leaving the Church. [St. Louis?]: privately printed, 1839.

Reveals the power of regulation of sexuality in polygamous Mormon relationships to create a fusion of the sacred and the secular in their community.

Graves, H. A. Andrew Jackson Potter, the Fighting Parson of the Texan Frontier: Six Years of Indian Warfare in New Mexico and Arizona; Many Wonderful Events in His Ministerial Life. Nashville: Southern Methodist Publishing House, 1881. Photocopy in LDS archives. Comments about Noah Smithwick as well as Potter’s earlier traveling experiences with the Brewsterites.

Hampshire, Annette P. Mormonism in Conflict, the Nauvoo Years. Studies in Religion and Society Series No. 11. New York: E. Mellen Press, 1985. Presents a macro-sociological analysis of the LDS failure to maintain and extend a closed theocratic system within the pluralistic societies of the American frontier along the Mississippi River.

Hansen, Klaus J. Quest for Empire: The Political Kingdom of God and the Council of Fifty in Mormon History. East Lansing: Michigan State University Press, 1967. Details the creation and utilization of the council by Joseph Smith Jr., and later Brigham Young, in furthering the theo-political plans of the LDS leadership.

Hunter, J. Marvin. A Brief History of Bandera County: Covering One Hundred Years of Intrepid History. Bandera, TX: Frontier Times, 1936.

Lucas, Mattie Davis, and Mita Holsapple Hall. A History of Grayson County, Texas [by] Mattie Davis Lucas (Mrs. W. H. Lucas) and Mita Holsapple Hall (Mrs. H. E. Hall). Sherman, TX: Scruggs, 1936.
