ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Like many good ideas, the one for this collection came during a conversation we had at a CCCC Convention a few years ago. By the following CCCC we brought our idea to the Utah State University Press booth and talked with Michael Spooner who expressed interest in our proposal. From that point forward, Michael has been an outstanding editor. We thank him for his vision, timely responses to even the most mundane questions, and patience when we felt as if we were herding bees rather than collecting and editing essays. To our contributors, each of whom brings a unique and thoughtful perspective to the work of WPAs: thank you for adding your voices to this collection. We also owe a special debt of gratitude to the two anonymous readers of this manuscript who provided us with detailed, useful guidance—and we might add did so very promptly—to shape this work further.
