Beautiful Lesson of the I

Brent, Frances

Published by Utah State University Press

Brent, Frances.
Beautiful Lesson of the I: poems.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/9873.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/9873

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=358672
The staves of a dog's ribs are rounded, surrounding breath and the essence of breath

is indifference—

The dog has the face of a doe mouthing ascendancy, pricking knuckles with the crushed glass of its milk teeth.

Disturbance runs along the curve of the shoulder, shining, black hindquarters.

Anguish is the rope tied to the throat.

Star is strapped to the forechest.