Beautiful Lesson of the I

Brent, Frances

Published by Utah State University Press

Brent, Frances.
Beautiful Lesson of the I: poems.
Project MUSE.  muse.jhu.edu/book/9873.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/9873

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=358688
RAIN ON THE MOUNTAIN

The mountain is a mirror of the stranger’s anatomy, the organs roped together.

Drooping pines at the base form a canopy for the traveler the size of a dot and the rocks and damp wooden steps are drawn with the same pen lines as the waffle pattern of the velvet clusters of moss.

At the top, where it rains, everything is scratched out.