In Cache Valley, the Mourning Cloak
casts the first butterfly shadow of spring.

Black wings trimmed in yellow,
does it mourn the winter passing?

In our naming, we mourn ourselves,
wingless, stuck to the ground like snails.