Contemporary Criminological Issues

Carolyn Côté-Lussier, David Moffette, Justin Piché, Gillian Balfour, Chris Bruckert, Kathryn Campbell

Published by University of Ottawa Press

Côté-Lussier, Carolyn, et al.
Contemporary Criminological Issues: Moving Beyond Insecurity and Exclusion.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/75265

For content related to this chapter https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2612014
Acknowledgements

This edited collection, which features both an English and a French volume, was assembled to mark the 50th anniversary of the Department of Criminology at the University of Ottawa in 2018. The project is the result of a collective process and support from many colleagues along the way, whom we would like to take the opportunity to thank.

Contributors to this edited collection were invited to present their chapters at a bilingual conference that was simultaneously translated, which we organized during the week-long celebrations of the anniversary. The discussions emanating from the conference helped further shape the content of the books. We thank the contributors, along with Anthony Doob (University of Toronto) who gave the opening remarks of this conference, and Gillian Balfour (Trent University) and Joane Martel (Université Laval) who gave the concluding remarks, for participating in this memorable event. We also thank the student volunteers (Anne Goodall, Alyssa Leblond, Joseph-Christopher Murat, Karley Carvalho, Kevin Hibbert, Maria Silva Roy, Katarina Bogosavljevic, and Renée Komel) and other members of the Criminology Graduate Students Association for their role in ensuring the conference ran smoothly.

This edited collection and the event connected to it would not have been possible without the many departmental colleagues who helped us organize the 50th anniversary celebrations, notably Carmella Gehrels, Stephanie Tavares, France Dompierre, Geneviève Nault, Kathryn Campbell, Sylvie Frigon, Jennifer Kilty, and Michael Kempa. This event also received support colleagues from the Faculty of Social Sciences, including Ouida Loeffelholtz, Marie-Anne Burgess, Sophie Mathiaut, Marianne Saikeley, Victoria Barnham, Sophie Letouzé, John Sylvestre, JoAnne St.-Gelais, and Maurice Lévesque. Other members of the University of Ottawa community—including Hillary Rose, Lucie Gendron, Natasha Paquet-Lavoie, Karine Charron, and Marianne Soucy—also made important contributions. We thank all of them for their efforts.

At the University of Ottawa Press, we had the pleasure of working with an efficient, dedicated and supportive team comprised of Caroline Boudreau, Lara Mainville, Elizabeth Schwaiger, François Lavigne, Vashini Jaunky, Maryse Cloutier, and Alicia Peres. We thank them, along with the two anonymous peer reviewers of each of the two volumes, for their constructive and useful feedback.

Lastly, we wish to acknowledge that the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, the Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences, the Department of Criminology, and the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Ottawa who all helped fund this project, which we hope will help shape critical criminology in Canada and elsewhere in the years to come.