The Lavender Vote
Hertzog, Mark

Published by NYU Press

Hertzog, Mark.
The Lavender Vote: Lesbians, Gay Men, and Bisexuals in American Electoral Politics.
NYU Press, 1996.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/15736.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/15736
Works Cited

make its point; 'ACT-UP,' gay and yuppie, uses raids, phone 'zaps' to spotlight health crisis."  Wall Street Journal, 7 December, 1.

References

Powell, Jennifer L., and Quinn Mitrovich. 1992. "Experiences of discrimination and harassment of gay men, lesbians and bisexuals in Charlottesville." Unpublished term paper, Sexual Minorities course, Department of Psychology, University of Virginia, spring term.
References

References

Zonana, Victor F. 1978. "California is roiled by a new initiative, over homosexuals: state voters to decide Nov. 7 whether school boards may fire 'gay' teachers." Wall Street Journal, 10 October, 1.

Additional Works Consulted

268

References

References

Maloney, Stephen R. 1976. "The lavender menace: Though many homosexuals are harmless and even goodly, the 'gay liberation' movement is tawdry, libertine, and barbaric." Alternatives 10 (December): 12-15.

Marlack, Carol. 1989. “Gay clout: Galvanized by the AIDS crisis, gay and lesbian activists are lobbying for civil rights along with government action to fight the epidemic; politicians are ill at ease.” National Journal 22 (6 January): 16–19.

Rosenfeld, Jeffrey P. 1986. “Demographics of vacation: Gray travel, gay travel, and touring teens are just some of the lucrative markets for the vacation industry.” American Demographics 8 (January): 38–41.

References

