Growing in the Shadow of Antifascism

Stach, Stephan, Hallama, Peter, Bohus, Kata

Published by Central European University Press

Stach, Stephan, et al.

Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/94691.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/94691

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=3197467
Kata Bohus is a senior research advisor at the University of Tromsø. After earning her PhD from Central European University in 2014, she was a postdoctoral researcher at the Lichtenberg Kolleg, Georg August Universität Göttingen. She also worked as a researcher-curator during a shared appointment at the Jewish Museum Frankfurt and the Institute for Jewish History and Culture – Simon Dubnow in Leipzig. Her research interests include state policies towards Jews during state socialism in Eastern Europe and Holocaust memory. She is the editor, with Atina Grossmann, Werner Hanak and Mirjam Wenzel, of Our Courage: Jews in Europe 1945-48 (2020).

Richard S. Esbenshade is an independent historian of 20th-century Hungary and East Central Europe, translator, and editor, and research associate with the Russian, East European, and Eurasian Center at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. He has published articles on Holocaust and East Central European memory and on interwar writers’ debates in Hungary.

Peter Hallama is a research fellow at the University of Bern, where he is principal investigator of a research project entitled “Socialist Fatherhood: Revolutionary Visions of the Future Family and Everyday Life in 20th-century Europe,” funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation. His publications, including two monographs and an edited volume, concentrate on the contemporary history of East Central Europe, Holocaust memory, the history of communism, and gender history.

Audrey Kichelewski is an associate professor at the Contemporary History Institute of Strasbourg University (UR ARCHE 3400), a member of the research group on Central Europe (CNRS) and a junior fellow at the Institut universitaire de France (2019–2024) for her project on war criminal trials in Poland during the Cold War. Her fields of interest include Holocaust memory in Po-

Benjamin Lapp is an associate professor of modern European history at Montclair State University, New Jersey. He is the author of Revolution from the Right: Politics, Class and the Rise of Nazism in Saxony (1997) and the editor, with Todd and Hillary Herzog, of Rebirth of a Culture: Jewish Identity and Jewish Writing in Germany and Austria Today (2008). He is currently working on a book based on the oral testimonies of female German-Jewish survivors of slave labor and concentration camps in Estonia during the Nazi occupation.

Gintarė Malinauskaitė is a research fellow at the Vilnius Branch Office of the German Historical Institute Warsaw. She defended her doctoral thesis in History at Humboldt University in Berlin in 2017. Her research interests focus on Holocaust research, memory studies, war crimes trials, and the history of Lithuania. Her monograph, entitled Mediated Memories: Narratives and Iconographies of the Holocaust in Lithuania, was published in 2019.

Katarzyna Person is a historian of the Holocaust and its aftermath, working at the Emanuel Ringelblum Jewish Historical Institute (JHI) in Warsaw, where she heads the full edition of the Ringelblum Archive publishing project. She is currently a 2020–2022 Marie Skłodowska-Curie Fellow at the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität in Munich. She has held fellowships, among others, in Yad Vashem, the Center for Jewish History in New York and the Institute of Contemporary History in Munich (Humboldt Research Fellowship). She has written a number of articles and three books on the history of Jews in Poland during the Holocaust and in the immediate postwar period; among them Warsaw Ghetto Police: The Jewish Order Service during the Nazi Occupation (2021).

Miriam Schulz holds a Ph.D. in Yiddish Studies from Columbia University and is the Ray D. Wolfe Postdoctoral Fellow 2021–2023 at the Anne Tanenbaum Centre for Jewish Studies and the Centre for Diaspora and Transnational Studies at the University of Toronto. She is the author of the monograph *Der Beginn des Untergangs: Die Zerstörung der jüdischen Gemeinden in Polen und das Vermächtnis des Wilnaer Komitees (2016) which was awarded the Hosenfeld/Szpilman Memorial Award 2017. She is the co-founder of the EU-funded project “We Refugees: Digital Archive on Refugeedom, Past and Present.”

Stephan Stach is a historian focusing on East Central Europe in the 20th century. He earned his PhD from Martin Luther University, Halle in 2015 with a study on Polish nationalities’ politics 1921–1939. He held postdoctoral positions at Halle University and the Institute for Contemporary History of the Czech Academy of Sciences, researching the role of the Jewish Historical Institute in Warsaw for Holocaust Memory during the Cold War. Until 2020 he had been working as a senior historian at POLIN Museum for the History of Polish Jews in Warsaw. He is the editor of Gegengeschichte: Zweiter Weltkrieg und Holocaust im ostmitteleuropäischen Dissens (with Peter Hallama, 2015) and Religion in the Mirror of Law: Eastern European Perspectives from the Early Modern Period to 1939 (with Yvonne Kleinmann and Tracie Wilson, 2016).

Anja Tippner is a professor of Slavic Literatures at Universität Hamburg, Germany. She works on concepts of documentation and life-writing as well as representations of the Shoah and extreme experiences in Russian, Polish, and Czech literature. Her recent publications include Narratives of Confinement, Annihilation, and Survival: Camp Literature in a Comparative Perspective (with Anna Artwińska, 2019); “Remembering Late Socialism: Autofictional and Autobiographical Literature and Post-Socialist Cultures of Remembrance” (with Agnieszka Mrozik) in the special issue of the European Journal of Life-Writing (10/2021); The Afterlife of the Shoah in Central and Eastern European Cultures: Concepts, Problems, and the Aesthetics of Postcatastrophic Narration (with Anna Artwińska, 2022).

Daniel Véri is an art and cultural historian, researcher at the Museum of Fine Arts – Central European Research Institute for Art History. He is a CEU Jewish Studies postdoctoral fellow (2021–2022), member of the “Confrontations: Sessions in East European Art History” research group (UCL, 2019–2022). His research interests include Central European art from the 1945–89 period, especially the artistic reception of Jewish identity and the Holocaust, as well as cultural diplomacy and the cultural history of blood libels. He is the author of “Leading the Dead”—The World of János Major (2013), and co-author of The Great Book Theft: French Book Exhibition Behind the Iron Curtain (2020).
Alexander Walther is a Ph.D. candidate at Friedrich Schiller University Jena, Germany. He studied history and English in a teacher’s training course at the University of Jena, and is working on his dissertation which investigates the multi-faceted forms of commemoration practices and representations of the Shoah in the GDR. He also works at the University of Erfurt as a project coordinator in the research group “Diktaturerfahrung und Transformation” (Experiences of Dictatorship and Transformation) which focuses on the end of the GDR and its legacy in reunified Germany.

Yechiel Weizman is a lecturer at the Israel and Golda Koschitzky Department of Jewish History and Contemporary Jewry at Bar-Ilan University, Israel. His research interests focus on Polish-Jewish relations, Jewish material culture, the study of the Holocaust and its aftermath, and the social history of state socialism in Eastern Europe. He is the author of Unsettled Heritage: Living next to Poland’s Material Jewish Traces after the Holocaust (2022).

Agnieszka Żółkiewska, is a historian of literature, translator from Yiddish and researcher of the Emanuel Ringelblum Jewish Historical Institute in Warsaw, Gierowski & Shmeruk Prize laureate. Her publications include translations and commentary of Yiddish poetry from the Shoah (Słowa pośród nocy: Poetyckie dokumenty Holokaustu, 2012) and a study of the post-war Jewish intelligentsia in Poland (Zerwana przeszłość: Powojenne środowisko intelektualne twórczej: Pomoc materialna i organizacyjna ze strony CKŻP, 2017). She is also one of the translators and editors of the complete edition of the Ringelblum Archive in Polish. Since 2018, she has taken part in a long-term scientific project which aims to create a virtual encyclopedia of the Warsaw ghetto.