From Preschool to Prosperity

Bartik, Timothy J.

Published by W.E. Upjohn Institute

Bartik, Timothy J.
From Preschool to Prosperity: The Economic Payoff to Early Childhood Education.
W.E. Upjohn Institute, 2014.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/82033.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/82033

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2791988
About the Institute

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is a nonprofit research organization devoted to finding and promoting solutions to employment-related problems at the national, state, and local levels. It is an activity of the W.E. Upjohn Unemployment Trustee Corporation, which was established in 1932 to administer a fund set aside by Dr. W.E. Upjohn, founder of The Upjohn Company, to seek ways to counteract the loss of employment income during economic downturns.

The Institute is funded largely by income from the W.E. Upjohn Unemployment Trust, supplemented by outside grants, contracts, and sales of publications. Activities of the Institute comprise the following elements: 1) a research program conducted by a resident staff of professional social scientists; 2) a competitive grant program, which expands and complements the internal research program by providing financial support to researchers outside the Institute; 3) a publications program, which provides the major vehicle for disseminating the research of staff and grantees, as well as other selected works in the field; and 4) an Employment Management Services division, which manages most of the publicly funded employment and training programs in the local area.

The broad objectives of the Institute’s research, grant, and publication programs are to 1) promote scholarship and experimentation on issues of public and private employment and unemployment policy and 2) make knowledge and scholarship relevant and useful to policymakers in their pursuit of solutions to employment and unemployment problems.

Current areas of concentration for these programs include causes, consequences, and measures to alleviate unemployment; social insurance and income maintenance programs; compensation; workforce quality; work arrangements; family labor issues; labor-management relations; and regional economic development and local labor markets.
“Bartik has a gift for clear, straightforward exposition. This new book makes a comprehensive and compelling case for a strong public commitment to early childhood education.”

— Nancy Folbre, Professor of Economics Emerita, University of Massachusetts Amherst

“From Preschool . . . is an enormously useful book that merits wide circulation. It does a great job of synthesizing and the proposal makes educational sense.”

— David Kirp, James D. Marver Professor of Public Policy, University of California, Berkeley

“In his second extraordinary book on early childhood, Tim Bartik explains how early learning investment can strengthen the national economy and address economic inequality by increasing economic opportunity. A must-read for business leaders worldwide.”

— Robert Dugger, Managing Partner, Hanover Provident Capital