Sons of the Gods,
Children of Earth
The world has long dreamed of possessing something of which it has only to be conscious in order to possess it in reality.

—Karl Marx

The task to be accomplished is not the conservation of the past, but the redemption of the hopes of the past.

—Max Horkheimer and Theodor Adorno

Every image of the past that is not recognized by the present as one of its own concerns threatens to disappear irretrievably.

—Walter Benjamin
