Abe Isoo, 34
Advisory Council on Foreign Relations, 49–52, 58
Akamatsu Katsumaro, 172, 206
Akao Bin, 116, 205
Alexander II, 32–33, 143, 154
Amakasu Masahiko, 116, 153
Amsterdam International Anarchist Congress, 130
Amur River Society. See nationalist organizations ana-boru debate (ana-boru ronsō), 140, 142–43, 150–51 anarchism and anarcho-syndicalism: assassinations planned, 150, 155, 189; Chinese and Koreans in Japan, 137; demise of, 154; impact of Russian Revolution, 135–36; international influence, 137–39, 152; labor unions and, 136; “pure” anarchism, 150, 156–57; response to Kōtoku’s execution, 131; split with Bolsheviks, 140, 142–43, 148, 151, 157; terrorism, 128, 130; working-class and veteran socialist split, 145–46. See also Morito Incident (1921); Taishō anarchism anarchist organizations: Hokufūkai (North Wind Society), 136, 145; Kokuren (Black Youth League), 155, 157; Shakanishigō Dōmei (Socialist League), 136–37; Zenkoku Jiren (All-Japan Libertarian Federation of Labor Unions), 144, 155, 157; Zenkoku Rōdō Kumiai Jiyū Rengōkai, 144
Anderer, Paul, 31
Anglo-Japanese alliance, 29, 172
anticapitalism, 129, 186, 192, 195, 197, 206–7
Anti-Comintern Pact of 1936, 80, 216 anticommunism, 8, 100–102, 211. See also Peace Preservation Laws
Anti-Immigration Act of 1924 (United States), 3, 197–98
Anti-Radical Bill (1922), 118, 198
Antonov, Vasily, 67–68, 76
Aoki Seichi, 108–9
April Theses of 1917 (Lenin), 133
Arahata Kanson: Beijing meeting with Ioffe, 148; Fourth Comintern Congress, 163; improper use of funds, 151; against legal proletarian party, 165, 171; police crackdown effect, 175; prison after Red Flag Incident, 130; split with Comintern, 181; worked at Baibunsha, 132
Araki Sadao, 7, 55, 79, 214
Arishima Takeo, 31
Asō Hisashi, 206–7
Asukai Masamichi, 139, 158
Bakunin, Mikhail, 35, 152–53
Bak Yeol, 137, 155
Beard, Charles A., 83–84
Beijing Convention of 1860, 17
Benyovsky, Maurice, 15–16
Berkman, Alexander, 135, 140
“Bethink Yourself!” (Tolstoy), 34
Bill for the Control of Extreme Social Movements, 113–14
Bolshevik leadership, 1, 5–6, 44, 56, 76, 166–67, 190
Bolsheviks: Asian policy, 166–67; attacks by Cossacks and tsarist army officers, 46–47; and CER, 46, 61; dictatorship of the proletariat, 45, 135; diplomacy with, 79–80; dual goals of, 62; imperialism, war on, 1–2; Japanese debts cancelled, 49, 78; Japanese government split on relations, 47; Japanese view of, 52; and Koreans, 62–63; and Provisional Government, 41, 133; statism and nationalism, 95, 108; thought to be aligned with Germany, 41; view of Japan, 2; world revolution, 1, 110–11. See also Comintern; communist ideology; October Revolution (1917)
“Bolsheviks and World Peace” (Trotsky), 71
Bolshevism. See communist ideology
Borodin, Mikhail, 87
British Labour Party: Hands off Russia Committee, 172; model for Asian communism, 178 buffer state, 54, 59–60, 96
Bukharin, Nikolai, 95, 97, 133, 148, 160, 181, 208
Bukharin Theses of 1922, 163–64, 168–71, 180
Capitalism: conservatives and, 122; Pan-Asianism critique of, 69, 75; Russian critique of, 37, 74, 84, 98, 108; socialism as alternative, 3, 9
Career of a Nihilist, The (Stepnyak-Kravchinsky), 32
Carr, E. H., 167
CER (Chinese Eastern Railway): Bolshevik influence, 61–62; Chinese interest, 86; and Chinese nationalism, 215; control to USSR, 65, 81; international syndicate proposed, 26; Japan considers how to control, 50, 55; Japan relinquishes control, 64; and October Revolution, 41, 46; Portsmouth Treaty, 91; Russian interest, 6, 20–21, 213; Soviet-Japanese cooperation and, 94; Soviets renounce right without compensation, 46; and White Russian forces, 55, 58, 60
“Change in Course for the Proletarian Movement, A” (Yamakawa), 150
Chang Hsüehliang, 215
Chang Ts'o-lin, 63, 183, 213
Chen Duxiu, 138
Chicherin, Georgy, 70, 79, 89–93, 98
China: anti-Japanese sentiments, 4–5, 7, 62, 108; communism and Comintern in, 86, 88–90, 161, 166–67, 177; Japan and, 11, 17, 27, 63, 187; Japanese aggression and anarchists, 156–57; JCP and, 160; Koreans and, 28, 158; May Fourth Movement, 62; national socialist view of, 201; Qing dynasty, 17, 21, 27; Russia and Japan in, 4, 17, 20, 22, 29–30, 215; Russia in, 19, 78; Russian and Japanese cooperation, 27–30, 81, 86, 91–96, 98; Russian concessions in, 46; Siberian buffer state and, 54–55, 61; Soviet influence, 6, 65–66, 200, 212–14; and United States role, 28. See also CER (Chinese Eastern Railway); Karakhan Manifesto (1919); Sino-Japanese War (1894–95)
“Coming of the Age of Revolution, The” (Mitsukawa), 71
Comintern: anti-Soviet paranoia, 121; in China, Korea and Japan, 87–89, 91, 213; China focus, 166–67, 179–81, 183; Congress of Far Eastern People, 147; connections to Japanese socialists, 160–61; dissolution of, 217; East Asia communist parties establishment, 163; Far Eastern branch invitation to Shanghai, 137–39; on fascism, 204; goal of worldwide revolution, 5; Guomindang and Chinese communists, 86; ideological threat to Japan, 7; international organization, 80; Japanese monarchy abolition, 170–71; and JCP, 114, 117, 121, 143, 151, 159–64, 169, 198–99, 208; and Korea, 63, 87; and Mongolian People's Republic, 200; rhetorical separation from USSR, 6; role in Japan, 182–83; 214; into Siberia for propaganda to army, 148; Soviet-Japanese Basic Convention (1925), 90; Theses on Japan (1932), 216; unified view of Japan lacking, 177–79; USSR diplomatic relations with Japan, 170. See also Anti-Comintern Pact of 1936; communist ideology; Japanese Communist Party (JCP) Comintern Congresses, 97, 133, 152, 162–63, 167–68, 177–78
Comintern Declaration, 137
Comintern Presidium, 34
Comintern Theses on Japan, 91, 180
Communist ideology: analysis of Soviet communism, 106–8; description as a plague, 114; failure of world takeover, 95, 217; fear of connection to Rice Riots, 59; Gotó’s views, 83–84; impact in Japan, 3, 6–9, 100, 109–11, 218–19; Japan concern about, 61–63, 112; Japan’s military and, 65; paradox of backward Russian Revolution, 189; and Russian communism, 123, 140; Uchida’s concern over, 52–53, 86; withering away of the state, 190. See also ana-boru debate (ana-boru ronso); anticomunismo; Bill for the Control of Extreme Social Movements; international communism
Communist International, 161
Communist Manifesto, The, 35
Conference of the Far Eastern Revolutionary Organizations, 162
Congress of Far Eastern People, 147
Congress of Toilers of the Far East (January 1922), 163
Cossacks, 46–47, 58, 60
Cross Currents in Europe Today (Beard), 83
Crowd, The (Le Bon), 195
Crump, John, 156
Dai Ajia Kyōkai (The Greater Asian Association), 79
Daikokuya Kōdayū, 16
Dai Nihon Kokusuikai organization (Greater Japan National Essence Association), 116
Dai Nihon Seigidan (Greater Japan Justice Group), 116
Dai Nippon (magazine), 71
Das Kapital (Marx), 135, 196–97, 199
Doshisha University, 122
Dostojevsky, Fyodor, 32
Edward VIII, 150
Early Modern Anarchism, 32
Daikoku University, 122
Dostojevsky, Fyodor, 30–31
Edward VIII, 150
emperor and monarchy: “Asiatic despot,” 167–69; Japanese system of property and, 89; liberal commitment to, 102, 104, 107; political system and, 43–44; removed from criticism, 24–25, 71. See also High Treason Incident (1910); Toranomon Incident
Endō Kichišaburō, 71
Endō Tomoshibi, 191
Engels, Friedrich, 192
Enomoto Takeaki, 19
Esslestrom, Eric, 86
Europe and Mankind (Trubetskoy), 74
Far East: Bolshevik role in, 2, 46, 55;
Japanese-Cossack offensive, 58, 60; Japanese eye on intervention, 50–52; Japanese invasion of, 47–48; Japanese view of opportunity, 19, 42; Korean immigration, 18; Korean independence groups in, 62; Russian explorers, 16. See also Manchuria; Siberia; Trans-Siberian Railway
Far East Business Development Corporation, 57, 82
Far Eastern Democratic Republic (FER), 60, 62, 64
Far Eastern People's Congress, 161
fascism, 78, 101, 123, 166, 187, 196, 203–4
February Revolution (1917): Allies and Central powers thoughts, 40–41; compared to October Revolution, 49; French Revolution comparison, 44; Japanese thoughts on, 39, 43–45, 103, 132; Meiji Restoration comparison, 44
First Chinese Revolutionary Division, 62
Fitzpatrick, Sheila, 10 foreign policy: divergence from domestic policies, 215; and imperial Russia, 215; and USSR, 213, 215
Freedom and People's Rights Movement, 9, 32–33
Fukuda Masatarō, 116, 155
Fukuda Tokuzō, 102–3, 106–7
Fukushi Kōjirō, 194
Fukushima Yasumasa, 19
Fukuzawa Yukichi, 19
Futabatei Shimei, 18, 31
Germany: and Bolsheviks, 42, 44–48, 54; Erfurt declaration, 34; and February Revolution, 40–42; Japanese fear of incursion, 49–50; Japan in WWI, 27, 29; peace declaration by Lenin, 45; radical socialist ideas, 52, 54; Triple Intervention, 21
Girochinsha (Guillotine Group), 116
Goldman, Emma, 135, 140
Gotō Shinpei: and anarchists, 77; arranges Ioffe visit, 68; and Bolshevik regime, 53; and business community, 82; and China, 88–89; east Asian economic alliance, 29; fear of Sino-Soviet rapprochement, 81; funds to Ōsugi, 152; Japanese island population, 92; Kita's view of, 78; letter to Chicherin, 93; Mitsukawa meeting, 69; to Moscow on Russian Japanese partnership, 95–96; and NEP in Soviet Russia, 84; opposition to PPL, 118–19; pro-Russian and Soviets, 21, 51, 68, 70, 77, 79–81, 83, 85–86, 217; and radical right, 83; Russian Japanese friendship, 94, 151, 217; and Sakhalin's oil resources, 81–82; and Siberia, 52, 57; SMRC president, 25–26; and SMR Research Institute, 70, 76; and Soviet state, 6; on Stalin Trotsky power struggle, 83–84
Hara Takashi: assassination planned by anarchists, 150; Bill for the Control of Extreme Social Movements, 113; Bolsheviks called pro-German pacifists, 41; disapproval of Cossacks, 60; first commoner premier, 39, 50, 59, 164; and Koreans, 63; and Paris Peace Conference, 64; Seiyūkai party leader, 55, 101; and universal suffrage, 111, 136
Hara Yoshimichi, 121
Hasegawa Nyozekan, 134
Hatta Shūzō, 155, 158
Heimin (newspaper), 133
Heiminsha (The Commoner's Association), 34–35, 188
Heimin shinbun (newspaper), 34–36, 132
High Treason Incident (1910), 9, 33, 51, 112, 117, 128, 130
Hikari (publication), 36
Hiranuma Kiichirō, 116, 119, 153, 205
Hirohito (Crown Prince), 117, 150, 155
Horvath, Dmitry, 46
Hoston, Germaine, 193
Imperial Defense Policy, 82
Imperialism (Kōtoku), 22
“Imperial National Defense Plan” (1907), 26
Imperial Rule Assistance Association (IRAA), 209
imperial Russia. See White Russia and White Armies
India: Comintern in, 167; Communist Party of India, 173–74; Indian anticolonial exiles and, 69–70
Inomata Tsunao, 181
Inoue Kaoru, 21
INDEX 273
index

International communism, 101–2, 110–11
International Press Correspondence (Inprecor), 161
International Workers’ Aid Society, 147
Ioffe, Adolf, 68, 77–78, 82–83, 89, 98, 148, 178, 205
Ishibashi Tanzan, 43–44
Ishigaki Eitarō, 160
Ishikawa Junjirō, 205, 207–8
Ishikawa Takuboku, 23, 31, 42, 131
Ishiawa Kanji, 214
Ishizaka Zenjirō
Ishibashi Tanzan, 43
Iwata Fumio, 77, 204–5
Japan, 274

Japanese Army General Staff, 26, 54–56, 58, 60, 64, 213. See also military
Japanese-British alliance, 76
Japanese Communist Party (JCP); anti-Soviet paranoia, 121; Charter and Manifesto of the Japanese Communist Party, 162–64; conservative concern for, 101; dissolution of, 91, 176; establishment of, 163; financial embarrassments, 175; on imperialism in China, 173–75, 181, 184, 201; Japanese nationalism, 219; and Korean Comintern, 87; and labor unions and working class, 171–72; legal proletarian party, 165–66, 171, 176–79; police crackdown effect, 175; Preparatory Committee, 162; suspicious of Korean and Chinese leftist movements, 174–75; Tokyo earthquake aftermath, 175–76. See also Bukharin Theses of 1922; Comintern
Japanese imperialism: capitalist bourgeoisie empowered by, 181; Chinese reaction to, 88; JCP opposition, 159; JCP view of, 172–73, 184; leftist debates and opposition, 2, 10–11, 97, 127, 157; national socialist opposition, 201; and Russian territory, 48, 212
Japanese interwar liberalism, 102
Japan-Russia, early contacts: Ainu lands and, 16–17; geography and military interest, 16
Japan-Russia Association, 26
“Japan’s Destiny” (Ōsugi), 149
Japan Socialist Party (Nihon Shokaitō), 112
Japanese Autonomous Oblast, 93
Jiandao Expedition, 63
Kaneko Fumiko, 137, 155
Kanno Suga, 33
Kanokogi Kazunobu, 196
Karakhan, Lev, 21, 23, 26, 28, 130
Kolchak, Alexander, 47, 54

Japan-Soviet relations, 163; Japanese-British alliance, 76; Japanese-Soviet agreement, 21
Japan-Soviet Joint Military Agreement, 21
Japan-Soviet Maritime Agreement, 21
Japanese-Soviet alliance, 23, 25
Japanese-Soviet Trade Agreement, 21
Japanese-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Alliance, and Mutual Assistance, 21
Japaneseterritory, 48, 212
Japan’s imperialism: capitalist bourgeoisie empowered by, 181; Chinese reaction to, 88; JCP opposition, 159; JCP view of, 172–73, 184; leftist debates and opposition, 2, 10–11, 97, 127, 157; national socialist opposition, 201; and Russian territory, 48, 212
Japan-Russia, early contacts: Ainu lands and, 16–17; geography and military interest, 16
Japan-Russia Association, 26
“Japan’s Destiny” (Ōsugi), 149
Japan Socialist Party (Nihon Shokaitō), 112
Japanese Autonomous Oblast, 93
Jiandao Expedition, 63
Kaneko Fumiko, 137, 155
Kanno Suga, 33
Kanokogi Kazunobu, 196
Karakhan, Lev, 21, 23, 26, 28, 130
Kolchak, Alexander, 47, 54

Japan-Soviet relations, 163; Japanese-British alliance, 76; Japanese-Soviet agreement, 21
Japan-Soviet Joint Military Agreement, 21
Japan-Soviet Maritime Agreement, 21
Japanese-Soviet alliance, 23, 25
Japan-Soviet Trade Agreement, 21
Japanese-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Alliance, and Mutual Assistance, 21
Japaneseterritory, 48, 212
Japan’s imperialism: capitalist bourgeoisie empowered by, 181; Chinese reaction to, 88; JCP opposition, 159; JCP view of, 172–73, 184; leftist debates and opposition, 2, 10–11, 97, 127, 157; national socialist opposition, 201; and Russian territory, 48, 212
Japan-Russia, early contacts: Ainu lands and, 16–17; geography and military interest, 16
Japan-Russia Association, 26
“Japan’s Destiny” (Ōsugi), 149
Japan Socialist Party (Nihon Shokaitō), 112
Japanese Autonomous Oblast, 93
Jiandao Expedition, 63
Kaneko Fumiko, 137, 155
Kanno Suga, 33
Kanokogi Kazunobu, 196
Karakhan, Lev, 21, 23, 26, 28, 130
Kolchak, Alexander, 47, 54

Japan-Soviet relations, 163; Japanese-British alliance, 76; Japanese-Soviet agreement, 21
Japan-Soviet Joint Military Agreement, 21
Japan-Soviet Maritime Agreement, 21
Japanese-Soviet alliance, 23, 25
Japan-Soviet Trade Agreement, 21
Japanese-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Alliance, and Mutual Assistance, 21
Japaneseterritory, 48, 212
Japan’s imperialism: capitalist bourgeoisie empowered by, 181; Chinese reaction to, 88; JCP opposition, 159; JCP view of, 172–73, 184; leftist debates and opposition, 2, 10–11, 97, 127, 157; national socialist opposition, 201; and Russian territory, 48, 212
Japan-Russia, early contacts: Ainu lands and, 16–17; geography and military interest, 16
Japan-Russia Association, 26
“Japan’s Destiny” (Ōsugi), 149
Japan Socialist Party (Nihon Shokaitō), 112
Japanese Autonomous Oblast, 93
Jiandao Expedition, 63
Kaneko Fumiko, 137, 155
Kanno Suga, 33
Kanokogi Kazunobu, 196
Karakhan, Lev, 21, 23, 26, 28, 130
Kolchak, Alexander, 47, 54
INDEX

Kōtoku Shūsui, 22, 34, 36–37, 117, 129–32, 150, 158, 188
Kōza-ha, 219
Kronstadt Rebellion, 140
Kropotkin, Pyotr, 78, 129, 135, 139–40, 146, 152, 188, 202
Kuga Katsunan, 20
Kuhara Fusanosuke, 58, 82, 94–95
Kwantung Leased Territory (China), 25
Kyoto Imperial University, 102, 122
Kyūshin (The radical), 205
Labor-Farmer Party, 121 labor movement: government resistance to, 116–17; murder by military police, 116; strikes and violence, 2, 135, 153. See also Toranomon Incident
Lavrov, Pyotr, 32
Law and Authority (Kropotkin), 146
Lazo, Sergei, 58
League of Far Eastern Communist Party, 138
Le Bon, Gustave, 195
Lenin, Vladimir: all-Bolshevik Council, 45, 48; on anarchism, 133, 135; antiwar position, 44; assassination of Nicholas II, 143; and Beard's work, 83, 146–40, 146, 152, 188, 202; on imperialism, 70, 139; intellectuals and working class, 141; and Japanese anarchists, 76, 148–49, 151, 158; on Japanese imperialism, 2, 97; and Japanese socialists, 188–89; and nationalism, 201, 209; promise of peace to the masses, 103; propaganda literature to Russian POWs, 36; publications into Japanese, 35, 178; and revolutions in Europe, 1, 73; socialist revolution announced, 37; statism to survive, 95
Liberalism: Russian Revolution effect, 101; threat of Bolshevism, 109–11. See also Taishō liberalism liberal organizations: Kaizō dômeikai, 102; Reimeikai (Dawn), 102, 108; Warera group, 102, 134. See also Taishō liberalism
Li Dazhao, 137
literature, Japanese: individualism, 132; “winter years” and, 132 literature and philosophy, Russian, 30–32, 74, 134–35, 188
Luxemburg, Rosa, 108
Makno, Nestor, 152
Manchukuo, 116, 153, 183, 204, 209, 215, 217
Manchuria: border protection, 61, 63–64; Japan and United States in, 56–57; Japanese control in, 2, 27, 183, 200, 214; Japanese plan to take over railroads, 54–55; and Koreans, 62–63, 91; Meiji Japan and, 22–23; Nikolaevsk Incident, 61; Nishi-Rosen agreement, 21; puppet state plan, 96; Russia and Japan in, 7, 20, 23, 25–26, 46, 80, 94; Russian role, 21–22, 215; Shandong Expedition, 156; support for Chang Tso-lin, 213; Treaty of Portsmouth, 25; Yamagata-Lobanov agreement, 21
Manchurian Incident, 91, 208, 215, 217
Manifesto of the Preparatory Committee, 162–64
Matsukawa Suekichi, 160, 175
Matsushō hominkai, 63
Marx, Karl, 35, 78, 189, 192. See also communist ideology
Marxism: and anarchism, 128, 158; anticapitalist critique, 219; arrival in Japan, 102; Fukuda analysis of, 106, 108, 194; and global movement, 192; in Japan, 218; and Japanese intellectuals, 176, 209; and Leninism, 182; military rejection of, 214; and nationalism, 10; and national socialism, 185–86, 205; popularity in Japan, 109, 134; rejection of, 143, 151, 153; and Taishō national socialism, 193
“Marx to Bakunin” (Ōsugi), 152
Matsudaira Tsuneo, 67, 86
Matsui Iwane, 79
Matsuoka Yōsuke, 51–52, 57–58, 86, 213, 215, 217
Meiji gekkan (magazine), 18
Meiji Revolution (1868): “Eastern question,” 20; emperor-centered constitutional system, 218; geography and military interest, 19, 22; Hokkaido and Ryūkyū Islands seizure, 17; JCP view of, 164; “Korean question,” 18; Kurile Islands to Japan, 18; and Manchuria, 22–23; popular anger over Portsmouth Treaty, 24–25; Russia relations, 21–23, 29; Russia viewed as backward, 19, 24
Michels, Robert, 196
Mikhailovich, George, 29
Miki Kiyoshi, 31
Mikoyan, Anastas, 95
Militarism and Fascism in Japan (Tanin), 204
Military: anticommunism of, 212–14; buffer zone plan, 213; conservatism of, 105–6; murder of ten labor agitators, 116; soldiers and Bolshevism, 108–9; split attitude toward Soviet Union, 7; understanding of Military (continued)

Communism, 106. See also Japanese Army General Staff; Siberian Intervention

Military and Social Problems, The (Satō Kōjirô), 105

Ministry, Foreign: alliance with USSR suggested, 98; and Anglo-American economic dominance, 215; and anti-American agreement, 49; and Comintern, 63, 90; and communist threat, 213; domestic communist movement, 87; Japan’s colonial role, 47; Korean worries, 18; Manchurian role, 27, 42; nationalist support, 23; and PPL, 122; Siberian Commission, 57–58; and USSR, 26, 29, 39, 51, 68, 86, 216; views on communism, 53–54, 65

Ministry, Home: backing for Taisho nationalist groups, 82; communist party organization, 121; domestic communist movement, 87, 100–101, 113, 115; internal order focus, 112; Morito Incident (1921), 146; progressive labor union bill, 111; on radical right, 83; Soviet state radical, 7, 115; on USSR, 68, 89

Ministry, Justice: and communist ideology, 100–101, 111–13, 117–18; and PPL, 119; and USSR, 7, 68, 89

Minobe Tatsukichi, 101, 194

Mitchell, Richard, 118

Mitsubishi (company), 19, 49, 58, 82

Mitsui (company), 19, 49, 58, 82

Mitsukawa Kametarō: concern about United States, 78; and Goto Shinpeï memorandum, 70, 95–96; and Indian anticolonial exiles, 70; national renovationist (kokka kaizô) movement, 72–73; overpopulation issue, 92; pan-Asian journalist, 67, 69, 196–97; political career, 79; pro-Russian and Soviets, 68; recognition of USSR, 77; reports on Kōtokū’s trial, 131; and Russian Revolution, 71, 73, 75; Russo-Japanese negotiations, 76; and terrorist policies, 76

Modern anarchism (Kemuyama), 143

Mogi Kyühei, 191

Monarchy. See emperor and monarchy

Morito Incident (1921), 146, 202

Motono Ichirō, 41, 49–53, 117

Murobuse Kōshin, 104, 109

Mussolini, Benito, 202

Mussolini and his thought (Takabatake), 203

My Escapes from Japan (Ōsugi), 138

Nagase Hōsuke, 44

Nagayama Naoatsu, 148, 154

Nakajima Masatake, 54–55

Nakano Seigô, 67, 69, 76, 93, 151

Nanba Daisuke, 117–18, 150, 155

Narod (Shinjinkai), 3

Nationalism: and anticapitalism, 186; anti-Russian views, 23–24; national renovationist (kokka kaizô) movement, 72–73; and Russian populism, 33; and Russian Revolution, 71; USSR recognition and, 82–83

Nationalist organizations: Gen'yôsha (Dark Ocean Society), 23, 69, 82, 116; Kokuryûkai (Black Dragon Society), 23, 33, 69, 82, 116, 148, 202; and labor unions, 153; and Meiji nationalist groups, 70, 82, 116; People’s League, 23; Rôninkai (Society of Masterless Samurai), 23; Sekka Bôshidan, 83, 116, 153–54; Tairo Dôshikai (Society of Comrades against Russia), 23; USSR recognition and, 140. See also anarchist organizations; rightist organizations

National socialism: centralized government power, 190–91; at Congress of the Shakai Taishûtô, 207–8; failure of, 186–87; kokka shakaishugi, 191–92; and Marxism, 186; and the military, 206–7; mob patriotism, 197–98; for nation as a whole, not working class, 186, 191–92; nondemocratic governance, 190, 210; radical patriotism, 206; “revision of socialism,” 185–86; Russian Revolution effect, 189, 208; USSR and JCP as foreign threat, 198–201.

See also Pan-Asianism and Pan-Asians

National socialist groups: National Socialist group, 3; National Social Party (Kokka shakaitô), 188, 197

“Nature of the Russian Revolution, The” (Mitsukawa), 67

Neutrality Pact of 1940, 80

New Order in East Asia, 209

Newspaper Law (1909), 146

Newspaper reports on revolution, 48–49

Nicholas II, 20–21, 39–40, 44, 143

Nihilist Party of the Far East, 33

Nihon Nomin Kumiai (Japan Farmers’ Union), 179

Nihon Rôdô Kumiai Hyôgikai (Japan Labor Union Council), 179

Nihon Rônôtô (Japan Labor-Farmer Party), 182

Nihon Shakaishugi, 208

Nikolaevsk Incident, 61

Nishi-Rosen agreement (1898), 21

Nobori Shomu, 44

Nômin Rôdôtô, 198

Nosaka Sanzô, 172

Ôba Kakô, 108

October Revolution (1917): Bolsheviks seize power, 1, 45, 140, 190; coup after February
Revolution, 41; German socialists suspected, 52; international problem, 46; Japanese expect a coup, 41–42; newspapers describe as illegitimate, 48, 103; promise to the masses, 103, 107; socialist revolution, 135, 189

Ogata Taketora, 76

Ogawa Heikichi, 118, 120, 207

Ōgimachi Suetada, 43–44

Ōkawa Shūmei, 69–72, 75–79, 196, 206, 208

On Russia (Uchida), 33

"Open Letter of Warning to Ioffe" (Kita), 77

Osaka Asahi shinbun (newspaper), 3, 42–43

Ōsugi Sakae: anti-imperialist agenda of Soviet communism, 157; approval of militant takeover, 150; arrested after Rice Riots, 59; internationalize anarchism, 152; and Korean and Chinese anarchists, 137; labor union priority, 143; murdered by military police, 116, 128, 153, 175–76; publications of, 132, 134, 136, 138, 149, 151–52; radical individualism of, 132; rejection of Lenin’s ideas, 141–42; on the Rice Riots, 136; and Japanese Bolshevism, 138–40; on the Russian Revolution, 135; to Shanghai, 138; on Soviet centralized government, 136; Taishō anarchism, 144, 151, 158; Taishō anarchist, 37, 72, 77, 130; theft of remains by Taikakai gang, 205

Outer Mongolia: declaration of independence (1911), 27; Japanese and Russian interests, 27; Russia in, 26

Ōyama Ikuo, 103–4, 116, 134, 165, 195

Ōzaki Yukio, 43, 77

Pan-Asiansim and Pan-Asianists: history of, 69; Lenin’s “proletarian” state, 73; and Russian Revolution, 68, 70–71, 73–75; Soviet-Japanese cooperation, 68; Soviet-Japanese negotiations, 79; Soviet-Japanese relations, 70; split on Russia, 77–78; support for national socialism, 196–97, 201–2; Western democracy objections, 73. See also Mitsukawa Kamarō

Pan-Pacific Trade Unions Secretariat, 179

Paris Peace Conference (1919), 3, 59, 64

Peace Preservation Law (1925): anticommunist but recognition of USSR, 90; domestic instability or foreign danger, 119–20; enactment of, 180; kokutai (altering the national polity), 118, 199; opposition movement to, 119; and socialism, 129; suppression of leftists, 101, 200, 218

Peace Preservation Law (1928): abolition of monarchy discussed, 171; kokutai (altering the national polity), 215; kokutai proposed as capital crime, 121–23; Tanaka and, 94; tool to control dissent, 123

People’s Will, 32–33, 154

Perovskaya, Sofia, 33

Plekanov, Georgy, 36

Political Situation in Proletarian Russia after the War, The (Beard), 83

PPL. See Peace Preservation Law (1925)

Pravda, 91–92

Profintern (Red Trade Union International), 144, 148, 156, 179 publications, anarchist: Jiyū rengō, 145; Kokushoku senen, 145; Kōsakunin, 145 publications, socialist: Chūō kōron, 103, 106, 134; Hikari, 36; Kairi, 106, 134; Kazō, 106, 117, 134, 146, 203; Kakumei Hyōron, 36; Kokka Shakaisugì, 134; Rōdō shinbun, 136; Rōdō undō, 134–38, 145, 150; Taiyō, 85, 134; Volya, 36. See also antiwar newspapers; Heimin shinbun (newspaper)

Public Order and Police Law, 34, 112, 175

Radek, Karl, 169–70

Railroads: Interallied Railway Committee, 64–65; Japanese goal to control, 42; Japanese plan for acquisition, 50; in Kwantung Leased Territory, 25; planned purchase from tsarist government, 49; and United States plan, 26. See also CER (Chinese Eastern Railway); South Manchurian Railway (SMR); South Manchuria Railway Company (SMRC); Trans-Siberian Railway

Red Flag (Akahata) Incident (1908), 130

Reimeikai (Dawn), 3, 102

Reimeikai (Newspaper), 36

Revolution (magazine), 144

“Revolution or Death” (Takao), 148

Rice Riots (1918), 2, 59, 218

rightist organizations: Aikoku Kinenkō (Patriotic Labor Party), 205; Dai Nippon Kokka Shakaitō (National Socialist Party of Greater Japan), 205; Rōsōkai (Old and Young Association), 70, 76, 196; Yūzonsha (Society of Those Who Yet Remain), 3, 70–72, 74, 77, 79

Rōdō Nōmintō (the Labor-Farmer Party), 182

Rōdōsha Nōminjō (Worker-Farmer Party), 180

Rōnō (Labor farmer) (journal), 181

Rōnō-ha (Labor-Farmer Faction), 181, 183, 219

Roshia hihyō (magazine), 108, 111

Roy, Manabendra, 173–74

Russia: and China, 17; Chinese Eastern Railway on Liaodong Peninsula, 21; civilized nations ranking, 18; classification of nations, 18; imperial ambitions in Asia, 17, 37–38; influence in Korea, 21–22; in Manchuria, 21–22; “northern problem,” 15; Provisional Government, 40–41, 43, 45; seeks war with Japan, 24; study by Japanese, 16, 18–19, 26. See also Bolsheviks; February Revolution (1917); October Revolution (1917)
Russia (continued)

Russia, Japanese views of: analysis of socialist ideas, 44–45; Asian state in Pan-Asian view, 73–74; communism in, 106–7; on the February Revolution, 43; focus on Bolsheviks, 44; government response to revolution, 49; Japanese expect a coup, 41; Karakhan Manifesto (1919), 46; Kawakami report on social and political situation, 41–42; newspaper reports on revolution, 48–49; northern Manchuria and Russian Far East, 42; split understanding of Bolsheviks, 47

Russian Civil War: Allies involvement reluctance, 56; Japanese interference, 2, 47, 58; Kolchak’s fall and, 60; labor unions drafted, 203; non-Russian communist view, 44; Russian populism, 32; Russian Revolution (1905): effect on Japan, 4, 17, 37–38; Provisional Government, 40–41, 43, 45; revises tsarist territory, 212; turn to Bolsheviks, 47; Russian Revolution and Social Movement, The Russian nihilist movement, 32

Russian Revolution (1917); October Revolution (1917)

Russian Revolution and Social Movement, The (Nobori), 44

Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic (RSFSR), 46

Russo-Japanese agreements (1907, 1910), 26

Russo-Japanese alliance, 137

Russo-Japanese Bank, 57

Russo-Japanese anti-American agreement (1916), 49

Russo-Japanese War (1904–5): constitutional monarchy result, 19; effect on Russia, 24; effect on socialism, 34–36; emperor as symbol of national unity, 25; Hara’s comments on, 39; and Korean question, 27–28; in Manchuria, 25; Treaty of Portsmouth and, 91

Rutgers, Sebald, 133–34

Sakai, antiwar movement, 34

Sakai Toshihiko: doubts about Comintern, 161–62; helped establish Heiminsha, 188; helped establish Hokufukai, 145; helped establish Kokutokai, 137; helped establish Organization of the Workers’ Movement, 136; helped establish Socialist League, 136; improper use of funds issue, 151; and JCP, 163, 177–78, 181; Lenin as an anarchist, 135; publications of, 134; publishing company, Baibunsha, 132; and Red Flag (Akahata) Incident, 130; rejected cooperation with socialists, 165

Sakhalin: commercial activity in, 65; concessions over oil resources, 81–82; Japanese plans to acquire, 50; Japan in, 61; Russia and Japan in, 16–18; Treaty of Portsmouth and, 25

Sakuradamon Incident, 155

Sano Manabu, 74

Satō Kōjirō, 105, 110

Satō Naotake, 50–51, 59–60, 98, 117

Scalapino, Robert, 176

Second International (1904), 35, 162

Seiji Kenkyūkai, 179

Seiyūkai (political party), 39, 43, 64, 101

Semenov, Grigory, 47, 54, 58, 60, 74

Sensei dōmei (Front League), 154

Shakai Minshū-kai, 79

Shakai Taishū-kai, 154

Shakai Tōshō-kai, 79

Shanghai Theses of 1925, 177

Shinshakai hyoron, 161

Shinshakai (Social Mass Party), 206

Shōwa Financial Crisis of 1927, 122

Showa Kenkyūkai, 179

Shumatsky, Boris, 167

Shinjinkai (New People Society), 3, 134

Shinshakai (publication), 132–33, 189, 191

Shinshakai hyōron, 161

Shōwa (Japan), 22

Shōwa Kenkyūkai, 79

Shinjūrō, 6, 58, 87–88, 117

Shimano Saburō, 74

Shinfūjō (New People Society), 188

Shinshakai (Socialist Mass Party), 182

Shinshakai (Front League), 154

Shinshakai (New People Society), 3, 134

Shinshakai (publication), 132–33, 189, 191

Shinshakai hyōron, 161

Showa Financial Crisis of 1927, 122

Showa Kenkyūkai, 79

Shumatsky, Boris, 167

Siberia: anti-Bolshevik forces in, 47; Bolsheviks control of, 46; fear of German control, 50, 52; fear of Russian invasion, 15; fear of US penetration, 57; Japan desire for buffer state, 59; Japanese economic interest, 57–58; Japanese intervention, 50–52, 54–56, 61, 63–64; Japanese invasion of, 47–48; Japanese military on, 19, 23, 42, 47; Japanese pressured to withdraw, 65. See also Omsk government; Trans-Siberian Railway

Sakhalin: commercial activity in, 65; concessions over oil resources, 81–82; Japanese plans to acquire, 50; Japan in, 61; Russia and Japan in, 16–18; Treaty of Portsmouth and, 25

Sakuradamon Incident, 155

Sano Manabu, 77, 115, 175

Satō Kōjirō, 105, 110

Satō Naotake, 50–51, 59–60, 98, 117

Scalapino, Robert, 176

Second International (1904), 35, 162

Seiji Kenkyūkai, 179

Seiyūkai (political party), 39, 43, 64, 101

Semenov, Grigory, 47, 54, 58, 60, 74

Sensei dōmei (Front League), 154

Shakai Minshū-kai (Socialist Mass Party), 182

Shakai Taishū-kai (Social Mass Party), 206

Shanghai Theses of 1925, 177

Shestov, Lev Isaakovich, 31

Shidehara Kijūrō, 6, 58, 87–88, 117

Shimano Saburō, 74

Shinfūjō (New People Society), 3, 134

Shinshakai (publication), 132–33, 189, 191

Shinshakai hyōron, 161

Shōwa Financial Crisis of 1927, 122

Showa Kenkyūkai, 79

Shumatsky, Boris, 167

Siberia: anti-Bolshevik forces in, 47; Bolsheviks control of, 46; fear of German control, 50, 52; fear of Russian invasion, 15; fear of US penetration, 57; Japan desire for buffer state, 59; Japanese economic interest, 57–58; Japanese intervention, 50–52, 54–56, 61, 63–64; Japanese invasion of, 47–48; Japanese military on, 19, 23, 42, 47; Japanese pressured to withdraw, 65. See also Omsk government; Trans-Siberian Railway
INDEX

Siberian Diaries (Enomoto), 19

Siberian Intervention: domestic problems and soldiers role, 105–6; Foreign Ministry and military, 54–57; and JCP, 159, 163; mining interests and, 94; nationalists view of, 82; objectives unclear and unpopular, 63–65; Ōsugi and, 140, 205; state response to Russian Revolution, 68; Tanaka and, 23, 76, 95

Sino-Japanese Joint Defense Agreement (1918), 55

Sino-Japanese War (1894–95), 21

Sino-Soviet Agreement, 65

SMR Research Institute, 70, 76

Social Democratic Party (Shakai Minshutō), 112

socialism and socialists: beginnings in Japan, 33–37, 129; Bolshevik influence, 9, 133–34; international socialist movement, 35, 37; organizational activities, 136; Osaka Conference, 140–41, 143; split of anarchism or gradualism, 129–30, 140–41, 189; “winter years,” 131–33

socialist organizations: Asiatic Humanitarian Brotherhood, 37; Association of Japanese Socialists, 161; German Social Democratic Worker’s Party, 34; Industrial Workers of the World, 129; Japanese Socialist League, 3; Nihon Shakaitō, 34; Russian Social Democratic Party, 35, 133; Russian Socialist Revolutionary Party, 36, 133; Shakai minshutō, 34; Socialist Association, 34; Society for the Study of Socialism, 34

Sōdōmei (Japan Federation of Labor), 136, 148, 172

South Manchurian Railway (SMR), 21, 25, 42, 50, 55. See also SMR Research Institute

South Manchuria Railway Company (SMRC), 25–26, 41

Soviet-Japanese Basic Convention (1925), 89, 91–92, 98, 214

Soviet-Japanese negotiations, 79–80

Soviet-Japanese Neutrality Pact (1941), 6, 216–17

“Soviet Peace Offer to Japan” (Chicherin), 79

Special Commission for Siberian Economic Aid, 57

Special Higher Police unit. See Tokkō police spheres of influence: in China, Manchuria and Mongolia, 173; of East Asia, 21, 91, 217; of Manchuria, 26, 215; in Mongolia, 200; Mongolia and Manchuria, 212; of northeast Asia, 30; Russia and USSR, 6, 8

Stalin, Joseph: and Anti-Comintern Act, 216; Bukharin power struggle, 95; and Chinese communists, 180; dissolves Comintern, 217; East Asian policies, 161; Five Year Plan, 208; Gotō meeting, 88–89, 96; and imperial Japan, 98–99; and Japanese fascism, 204; and Japanese national socialists, 208; publications in Japan, 178; “socialism in one country,” 97; Stalinist purges, 11; on Stalin Trotsky power struggle, 170

Sternhell, Zeev, 185–86

Stolen Asia (Mitsukawa), 74

Student Federation of Social Science, 122

Sudzilovsky-Russel, Nikolai, 36

Suiheisha movement, 154, 171

Sun Yat-sen, 36, 88, 200

Taguchi Unzō, 77, 160, 162

Taikakai (Taika Reform Association), 198, 204–5

Taishō anarchism: features of, 127; international orientation, 219; and Japanese imperialism, 158; and labor unions, 150; rejection of Marxism and Russian communism, 128; similarity to Leninist communism, 149; violence of, 128. See also High Treason Incident (1910)

Taishō liberalism: anticomunism of, 111; Bolshevism and, 103–4; communism as external menace, 100; features of, 102. See also universal suffrage

Taishō national socialism: anticomunism of, 187; and Japanese imperialism, 204; respect for imperial sovereignty, 193–95; and Russian Revolution, 186

Taishō Revolution: party politics in Japan, 86, 101; universal suffrage, 43

Takabatake Motoyuki: collaboration with extreme rightists, 186, 205; Das Kapital translator, 135, 197; elite management of state, 196; establishment of Keirin Gakumei, 202; establishment of kokka shakaishugi, 191–92; and fascism, 203–4; friendship with Mitsukawa, 197; and imperial system, 194, 202; and Japanese imperialism, 201; and JCP, 198–99; and Kōtoku, 188–89; on Lenin, 44–45, 133; Marxist identity, 209–10; national socialism of, 72, 150, 185, 189, 192–93, 198, 208; paradoxes of revolution in Russia, 189–90; path to socialism, 187–88; plans new party, 206–7; publications of, 134, 200; rejection of capitalism, 195; and Russo-Japanese War, 187–88; Trotsky and militarization of labor unions, 203; virulent anticomunist critique, 187

Takahashi Kamekichi, 160

Takahashi Korekiyo, 81, 113
Tanakagi’iči: aggressive course in China, 156, 183–84; agreed to alliance with Russia, 94; Army minister in Hara Cabinet, 56, 59; demilitarized zone in Manchuria, 95; knowledge of Russia, 22–23, 50; national defense plan, 26; plan to create a mass progovernment party, 207; prime minister, 156; prime minister and foreign minister, 121; recognition by Japan, 86; Shandong Expedition, 156; Siberian land concessions, 92–93; Siberian state plan, 54; War minister, admiration for Trotsky, 84
Tanin, O., 204
Terauchi Masatake, 23, 29, 43, 50, 59
Terrorism (pamphlet), 144
terrorism and violence: anarchism and, 128, 130, 143–44, 155; labor movement, 153–54; in tsarist Russia, 143
Third International. See Comintern
Tōgō Shigenori, 86
Tōhō jiron (magazine), 67
Tokkō police, 112, 120, 122–23
Tokonomi Takejirō, 116, 197
Tokuda Kyōichi, 162, 168
Tokutomi Roka, 23, 31–32, 131
Tokutomi Sohō, 32
Tokyo Asahi shinbun (newspaper), 48
Tokyo Imperial University, 22, 101, 146, 202
Tokyo nichi nichirō (newspaper), 84, 97
Tolstoy, Leo, 23, 30–31, 34–35
Toranomon Incident, 117, 155
Tōyama Mitsuru, 23, 69
Tōyō Keizai Shimpō (newspaper), 43, 102
Trans-Siberian Railway, 19–21, 41, 49–50, 54, 56–57, 60, 64, 214, 216
Treaty of Brest-Litovsk, 45–46, 53
Treaty of Extradition (1911), 28
Treaty of Kanghwa (1876), 18
Treaty of Nerchinsk (1689), 17
Treaty of Portsmouth, 24–25, 91
Treaty of Shimoda (1855), 17
Tripartite Pact, 215
Triple Intervention, 21
Trotsky, Leon: blamed for Comintern failure in China, 180; Bolshevik party leader, 48; inspiration to Takabatake, 203; Left Opposition, 95; people’s commissar of foreign affairs, 5, 45; radical socialist statements, 7; and Stalin, 83–84, 97, 170, 208; on tsarist debt cancellation, 49; writings into Japanese, 71
Tsukui Tatsuo, 205, 207
Tugan-Baranovsky, Mikhail, 108
Twenty-One Demands, 27, 50, 91
Two Russias (Satō), 50
Uchida Ryōhei, 33, 69
Uehara Yūsaku, 54, 64, 106
Uesugi Shinkichi, 146, 202–4
Ugaki Kazushige, 206–7, 214
Ulyanov, Vladimir. See Lenin, Vladimir
Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR): agree to buffer state, 60; Changkufeng Incident, 216; in China and Korea, 86–87; dual diplomacy, 68; dual view by Japan, 6; Fifteenth Party Congress, 84; Japan and China, 6, 81, 85–86; Japan considers immigration to Russian Far East, 92–93; Japanese alliance, 93–94, 96–99; Japanese fear of Soviet influence, 121; and Japanese interests in Asia, 80; Mongolia into satellite state, 200; New Economic Policy (NEP), 11, 84, 140, 150; Nomonhan War of 1939, 216; nonaggression pact with China, 216; nonaggression pact with Japan, 80, 215; normalization of relations with Japan, 76–78, 85–87, 89–90; paradox of foreign and domestic policy, 115; recognition by Japan, 6, 53, 77, 79–80, 82–83, 85–87, 89, 93; secret agreement made public, 49; socialism in one country, 96–97. See also Comintern
United States: Anti-Immigration Act (1924), 3; as chief “hypothetical” enemy, 82; Japanese relations with, 50, 56; plan to neutralize SMR and CER, 26; policies regarding Japan, 92; Sakhalin concessions, 80–81
Universal Manhood Suffrage Act, 119–21
universal suffrage: acceptance of, 111; enactment of, 180; JCP view of, 165; liberals and, 100, 102, 104–5; military endorsement of, 105; pan-Asian support, 73; socialist party demand, 34; Taishō Revolution demand, 43; tied to Peace Preservation Law, 119–20
Vladivostok: and Bolshevik control, 46, 50; Japanese economic interest, 19–20; Japanese military and, 54–57; and Koreans in, 28, 62, 138. See also Comintern
Voitinsky, Grigory: central figure in JCP, 160–61; funds to Kondō, 162; funds to Ōsugi, 139, 152; meeting with Ōsugi in Shanghai, 138; reestablishment of JCP, 178–79; reports to Lenin on Siberia and China, 167; Russian Comintern agent, 113; Shanghai Theses of 1925, 177

Wada Kyūtarō, 145, 155
Wakatsuki Reijirō, 120
Warekan (magazine), 93
"Waseda Revolution," 43
Waseda University, 43, 115, 145
Washington Naval Conference of 1921–22, 3, 60, 64, 92, 147
Western imperialism, 30, 68–69, 75–76, 78
White Russia and White Armies, 46, 51, 55, 65
Why Do We Make Bolsheviks Our Enemy? (Mitsukawa), 71
"Why I Do Not Support the Ongoing Revolution" (Ōsugi), 151
Wilson, Sandra, 183
Wilson, Woodrow, 56
World War I: Bolshevik armistice negotiations, 49; effect on Russia, 40; Japan into Shandong Province, 27

Yamagata Aritomo, 7, 18, 20–22, 26, 28–29, 43, 50, 55, 94
Yamagata-Lobanov agreement, 21
Yamaji Aizan, 188–89
Yamakawa Hitoshi: ana-boru debate, 143; on Bolshevik terrorism, 165–66; on Bolshevik vision, 182; on bourgeoisie, 166; Bukharin Theses, 170–71, 180–81; on Comintern, 162, 164, 180–81; critic of Taishō democratic movement, 165; disagreement with Voitinsky, 179; infiltrating leftist organizations, 179; Japan as a capitalist power, 219; on Japanese imperialism, 175; and JCP, 139, 145, 162, 165, 171, 174, 178; and labor unions, 171–72; legal proletarian party, 176–77; main theoretician of the Left, 131, 160, 219; on the Meiji Revolution, 164; Ōsugi’s comment on Soviet central government, 136; publications of, 132–34, 150, 159; rejection of anarcho-syndicalism, 150; on Russian Revolution, 8, 183; Shanghai Theses of 1925, 177. See also Manifesto of the Preparatory Committee
Yamamoto Kenzō, 175
Yamato Minrōkai (Yamato National Service Association, 1921), 116, 153
Yanson, Karlis, 178
Yi Tong-hwi, 138
Yohan, E., 204
Yomiuri shinbun (publication), 194
Yonemura Kaichirō, 154
Yoshihara Taro, 148, 160–62, 175
Yoshino Sakuzō, 23, 43, 101–4, 106, 110, 165
Yoshizawa Kenkichi, 90
Yūshinsha (New Society), 76

Zasulich, Vera, 32–33, 35
Zen’ei, 150
Zhang Tailei, 147
Zinoviev, Grigory, 48, 84, 95, 147–49, 163, 169, 171, 178–80