Character Constellations

Smeets, Roel

Published by Leuven University Press

Smeets, Roel.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/98048

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=3191735
CONTENTS

Chapter 1: Introduction

1.1 Introduction: Character Constellations
   1.1.1 Example: Character Constellations in Joost Zwagerman’s
   De buitenvrouw (1994) and Robert Vuijsje’s Alleen maar
   nette mensen (2008) 11
   1.1.2 Delineation of the Study and Research Question 14
   1.1.3 Character Studies 18
   1.1.4 Characterization and Character Types 20
   1.1.5 The One Versus the Many 24

1.2. Critique of Representation 25
   1.2.1 Representation and Ideology 25
   1.2.2 Critiques of Representation in Dutch Literature 31

1.3. Cultural Analytics 34
   1.3.1 Debates on Distant versus Close Reading 34
   1.3.2 Modeling in Cultural Analytics 39

1.4 Methodological Background 43
   1.4.1 Tools: Narratology and Network Analysis 43
   1.4.2 Corpus and Data 45
   1.4.3 Previous Research on Corpus and Dataset 47

1.5 Structure of the Book and Instruction for Reading 48

Chapter 2: Data

2.1 Introduction: Descriptive Statistics 51

2.2 Information on the Authors 52

2.3 Demographic Metadata on the Characters 52

2.4 (In)Dependence of Variables 55
Chapter 3: Centrality

3.1 Introduction: Narrative Cornerstones
3.2 Centrality in Network Theory
3.3 Centrality in Narratology
3.4 Method for Extracting Character Networks
   3.4.1 Characters as Nodes
   3.4.2 Character Relations as Edges
   3.4.3 Automatic Extraction of Character Networks
3.5 Model I: Character Rankings
   3.5.1 Results Multiple Regression Analysis
   3.5.2 Close Reading: Centrality, Gender, and Descent in Özcan Akyol’s Eus (2012)
3.6 Conclusion to this Chapter

Chapter 4: Community

4.1 Introduction: Narrative Connections
4.2 Community in Network Theory
   4.2.1 Community Detection
   4.2.2 Homophily
4.3 Community in Narratology
   4.3.1 Syntagmatic and Paradigmatic Collectives
   4.3.2 Dialogic Interaction and Polyphony
4.4 Model I: Community Detection
   4.4.1 Clauset-Newman-Moore and Girvan-Newman Algorithms
   4.4.2 Kernighan-Lin Bisection Algorithm
   4.4.3 Close Reading: Communities in Philip Huff’s Niemand in de stad (2012)
4.5 Model II: Homophily
   4.5.1 Dyad Assortativity
   4.5.2 Close Reading: Homophily in Mensje van Keulen’s Liefde heeft geen hersens (2012)
4.6 Conclusion to this Chapter
Chapter 5: Conflict

5.1 Introduction: Narrative Clashes

5.2 Conflict in Network Theory

5.3 Conflict in Narratology

5.4 Model I: Hierarchies in One-on-one Conflicts
   5.4.1 Conflict Scores
   5.4.2 Results of Multiple Linear Regression
   5.4.3 Close Reading: Class Conflicts between Two Characters in Bart Koubaa's De Brooklynclub (2012)

5.5 Model II: Social Balance in Triangular Conflicts
   5.5.1 Automatic Modeling of Social Balance in Enemy/Friend triads
   5.5.2 Social Balance in Leon de Winter's VSV, of daden van onbaatzuchtigheid
   5.5.3 Social Imbalance in Tommy Wieringa's Dit zijn de namen

5.6 Conclusion to this Chapter

Chapter 6: Conclusion

6.1 Findings of the Book

6.2 Public Debates on Literary Representation

6.3 Future Research

Appendix A: Statistical tests

Appendix B: Distribution of Relational Roles

Appendix C: Main and Interaction Effects

Appendix D: Pearson Correlations

Notes

References