

Braid, James. Neurypnology; or, the Rationale of Nervous Sleep. London: John Churchill, 1843.

———. Advice to Mothers. Boston: Joseph Bumstead, 1809.

———. “Wonders Will Never Cease.” All the Year Round 1 (September 1859): 497–500.
———. “Strange and Yet True.” All the Year Round 7 (1862): 540–42.

Laura, David J. de. “‘The Ache of Modernism’ in Hardy’s Later Novels.” ELH 34.3 (September 1967): 380–99.

———. Mind and Brain; or, the Correlations of Consciousness and Organization. 2 vols. Edinburgh: Sutherland and Knox, 1860.

Schiller, J. “Physiology’s Struggle for Independence in the First Half of the Nineteenth Century.” History of Science 7 (1968): 64–89.

Shatto, Susan. “Miss Havisham and Mr. Hopes the Hermit: Dickens and the Mentally Ill.” Dickens Quarterly 2.2 (June 1985): 43–49; and 2.3 (September 1985): 79–83.

