Suburban Steel
Knerr, Douglas

Published by The Ohio State University Press

Knerr, Douglas.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/28376.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/28376

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=1178497
LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

Carl Strandlund, Lustron’s founder and president. 71
Photo credit: KDN Videoworks

A woman relaxes in the front yard of a Lustron demonstration house. 79
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

The Lustron living room. 105
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

The Lustron kitchen, equipped with an “Automagic” combination clothes-and dish-washing machine. 106
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

The master bedroom closet space and built-in dressing table with mirror. 108
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

The mechanical room. 110
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

Steel skeleton of the Lustron house. 112
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

Floor plan for the two-bedroom model. 113
Author’s collection

A Lustron house on one of Dick Reedy’s specially designed tractor trailers. 115
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

Lustron’s young executives in front of the factory. 116
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

Aerial view of the Lustron factory in Columbus, Ohio. 117
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society
List of Illustrations

Porcelain-enamed steel panels emerge from drying ovens. 119
Photo credit: Ohio Historical Society

Schematic of the Lustron factory. 121
Author’s collection

Front and rear view of a Lustron three-bedroom model with attached garage. 151
Author’s collection

A recently renovated Lustron two-bedroom model. 185
Author’s collection.