Imagining the Parish in Late Medieval England
Rentz, Ellen K.

Published by The Ohio State University Press

Rentz, Ellen K.
Imagining the Parish in Late Medieval England.
The Ohio State University Press, 2015.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/39571.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/39571

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=1505733
Primary Sources

The English Register of Godstow Nunnery. Ed. Andrew Clark. EETS o.s. 129 (1911).

The Lay Folks Mass Book. Ed. Thomas Frederick Simmons. EETS o.s. 71 (1879).

The Lay Folks’ Catechism. Ed. Thomas Frederick Simmons and Henry Edward Nolloth. EETS o.s. 118 (1901).

The Piers Plowman Tradition: A Critical Edition of Pierce the Ploughman’s Crede, Richard the

Prick of Conscience. [See Richard Morris’s Prick of Conscience.]

Waddington, William. Manuel des Péchés. [See Mannyng, Handlyng Synne, ed. Furnivall.]

Secondary Sources

Clanchy, Michael. “Did Mothers Teach Their Children to Read?” In Motherhood, Religion, and...

Coleman, Joyce, Mark Cruse, and Kathryn A. Smith, eds. The Social Life of Illumination: Manuscripts, Images, and Communities in the Late Middle Ages. Turnhout: Brepols, 2013.

———. “Narration and the Invention of Experience: Episodic Form in Piers Plowman.” In The

