Hard Sayings

Haddox, Thomas F.

Published by The Ohio State University Press

Haddox, Thomas F.
Hard Sayings: The Rhetorics of Christian Orthodoxy in Late Modern Fiction.
The Ohio State University Press, 2013.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/23947.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/23947

For content related to this chapter https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=896900
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments

Introduction  Christian Orthodoxy and the Rhetoric of Fiction

Chapter 1  Flannery O’Connor, the Irreducibility of Belief, and the Problem of Audience

Chapter 2  Catholicism for “Really Intelligent People”: The Rhetoric of Muriel Spark

Chapter 3  John Updike’s Rhetoric of Christian American Narcissism

Chapter 4  Walker Percy’s Rhetoric of Time, Apocalypse, and the Modern Predicament

Chapter 5  The Uses of Orthodoxy: Mary Gordon and Marilynne Robinson

Epilogue  On Belief and Academic Humility

Works Cited

Index
This page intentionally left blank