I am thankful to the staffs of the Museum of Culpeper History and the Orange County Historical Society for research assistance; to the University of Memphis and the National Endowment for the Arts for generous support; to Erin McGraw of The Ohio State University and to Malcolm Litchfield and his staff at The Ohio State University Press for making possible the Prize in Short Fiction; and to the editors who first published these stories, including Ben George of Fugue; Cheston Knapp of Tin House; John Easterly, the late Jeanne M. Leiby, Donna Perreault, and James Olney of The Southern Review; Paula Deitz and Ron Koury of The Hudson Review; Susan Burmeister-Brown and Linda B. Swanson-Davies of Glimmer Train; Christopher Stokes and Alex Taylor of The Yalobusha Review; R. T. Smith of Shenandoah; and Allan Gurganus and Kathy Pories of New Stories from the South 2006 for suggestions both artistic and practical. Much affection to my sister Hilary Holladay and to my colleagues and students at the University of Memphis.

“Heart on a Wire” received First Prize in the 2006 Glimmer Train Fiction Open. “The Flood” received First Prize in the 2009 Glimmer Train Family Matters competition.
Acknowledgments

The stories have been previously published, some in slightly different form.

This book is a work of fiction. Alexander Spotswood, Jefferson “Soapy” Smith, and Frank Reid were real people; however, their depictions are entirely the product of the author’s imagination. Resemblance to actual events, locales, circumstances, organizations, names, or individuals, living or dead, is coincidental.
