Everyday Resistance, Peacebuilding and State-making

Iñiguez de Heredia, Marta

Published by Manchester University Press

Iñiguez de Heredia, Marta.
Everyday Resistance, Peacebuilding and State-making: Insights from 'Africa's World War'.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/64057.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/64057

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2278282
FIGURES, MAPS AND TABLES

Figures
3.1 DPKO uniformed and total personnel 98
3.2 DPKO budget by mission 99
3.3 Peacekeepers/100,000 people 100
3.4 Reconstruction budget 2004 101
6.1 Home-made broom, copyright © Marta Iñiguez de Heredia 154
6.2 Street view with community-built electricity lines, copyright © Marta Iñiguez de Heredia 168
6.3 Street in Goma, self-made electrical line, copyright © Marta Iñiguez de Heredia 169
6.4 Commercial generator, copyright © Marta Iñiguez de Heredia 170
6.5 Businesses supplied by the generator, copyright © Marta Iñiguez de Heredia 171
6.6 Maternity hospital, copyright © Marta Iñiguez de Heredia 172

Maps
1.1 Democratic Republic of Congo: presence at mine sites of armed groups and other entities. Reproduced by permission of the Humanitarian Information Unit, United States Government 45
3.1 Regional alliances and interventions in the DRC wars of 1996 and 1998, from The Atlas of War and Peace, Dan Smith, copyright © 2003 Taylor & Francis Ltd. Reproduced with permission of Taylor & Francis Books UK (image provided by the British Library) 88

Tables
2.1 Characteristics of everyday and formally organised resistance 55
2.2 Hollander and Einwohner’s types of resistance 70
2.3 Overview of the everyday framework of resistance applied to current practices in the DRC 72
3.1 Features and achievements of the 2009–11 Goma Accords operations 96
3.2 Comparison of private contributions to OCHA appeals 100
6.1 FARDC extortion at checkpoints in Kabare and Kasha 160
6.2 ‘Food constraints and household strategies’ 162