Table of Contents

Acknowledgements 11

Introduction 13
The Companies in Asia
Adam Clulow and Tristan Mostert

Part 1 Diplomacy

1 Scramble for the spices 25
Makassar's role in European and Asian Competition in the Eastern Archipelago up to 1616
Tristan Mostert

2 Diplomacy in a provincial setting 55
The East India Companies in seventeenth-century Bengal and Orissa
Guido van Meersbergen

3 Contacting Japan 79
East India Company Letters to the Shogun
Fuyuko Matsukata

Part 2 Trade

4 Surat and Bombay 101
Ivory and commercial networks in western India
Martha Chaiklin

5 The English and Dutch East India Companies and Indian merchants in Surat in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries 125
Interdependence, competition and contestation
Ghulam A. Nadri
Part 3  Violence

6  Empire by Treaty?
The role of written documents in European overseas expansion, 1500-1800
Martine van Ittersum

7  ‘Great help from Japan’
The Dutch East India Company’s experiment with Japanese soldiers
Adam Clulow

8  The East India Company and the foundation of Persian Naval Power in the Gulf under Nader Shah, 1734-47
Peter Good

Epilogue

9  The Dutch East India Company in global history
A historiographical reconnaissance
Tonio Andrade

Index

List of Illustrations

Illustrations
Figure 1  The Ternatan capital of Gammalamma. Engraving, 1601. 34
Figure 2  Map of the northern Moluccas. Coloured engraving, Blaeu workshop, c. 1635. 40
Figure 3  The VOC factory in Hugli-Chinsurah. Painting, Hendrik van Schuylenburgh, 1665. 61
Figure 4  Portrait of nawab Shaista Khan. Album leaf, mid-18th century. 68
Figure 5  Letter of the Japanese senior council of the shogunate to Dutch King Willem II. Manuscript, 1845. 94
Figure 6  Bombay boxwork glovebox. c. 1867. 102
Figure 7  Components of Bombay boxwork. Before 1880. 103
Figure 8  Woman wearing ivory-like bangles, Photograph, Christopher Michel, c. 2011.  112
Figure 9  Modern Punjabi-style wedding chura. 2017  112
Figure 10  Boxmakers of Bombay. Photograph, c. 1873.  120
Figure 11  Map of New Netherland and New England. Coloured engraving, Nicolaas Visscher II, c. 1684.  163
Figure 12  Bird’s eye view of New Amsterdam. Pen and watercolour, Johannes Vingboons, c. 1665.  170
Figure 13  View of the West-Indisch Pakhuis in Amsterdam. Engraving, Jan Veenhuysen, 1665.  171
Figure 14  Portrait of the Amsterdam merchant Abraham de Visscher. Painting, attributed to Abraham van den Tempel, mid-17th century.  172

Maps
Map 1  Southeast Asia  6
Map 2  South-Asia and the Arabian Sea  7
Map 3  East India  7
All reference maps made by Armand Haye, the Netherlands