Observing Protest from a Place

Published by Amsterdam University Press

Amsterdam University Press, 2015.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/66411.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/66411

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2355638
Table of contents

Acknowledgements 9

Introduction 11

Johanna Siméant, Marie-Emmanuelle Pommerolle and Isabelle Sommier

1 Methodological reasons for observing a WSF in Africa 12
2 The division of labor and the paradoxes of activist internationalization 15
3 Contexts of international collective action 18

1 What can quantitative surveys tell us about GJM activists? 21

Isabelle Sommier

1.1 Data and methods 22
1.2 The seemingly convergent portrait of the alter-global activist 26
1.3 The evolution of the multi-organizational field of alter-globalism: a delicate comparison 32
1.4 Conclusion 38

2 Activist encounters at the World Social Forum 41

Marie-Emmanuelle Pommerolle

2.1 Internationalized nationalism and sovereignty 44
2.2 The misunderstanding that produces nationalist commitments 50
2.3 Conclusion 58

3 Mapping a population and its taste in tactics 59

Johanna Siméant, with Ilhame Hajji

3.1 What do we know about how familiar alter-globalization activists are with protest practices? 59
3.2 Familiarity with protest practices among the respondents at the Dakar WSF 63
3.3 Using Multiple Correspondence Analysis (MCA) and Ascending Hierarchical Clustering to study populations “in a situation of militancy” in an international event 69
3.4 Ascending Hierarchical Clustering, composition of groups of participants, and “bringing real people back in” through paragons 78
3.5 Conclusion 89

4 Women’s issues and activists at the World Social Forum in Dakar 91
Julie Castro
4.1 Transnational, but not only: the actors of women’s issues in Dakar 96
4.2 Strategies, tensions, and blind spots around women’s issues in Dakar 103

5 Division of labor and partnerships in transnational social movements 115
Observations of North-South and South-South interactions at the World Social Forum
Hélène Baillot, Isaline Bergamaschi and Ruggero Iori
5.1 Acting “on behalf of” or acting “with.” Methods of North-South cooperation at the Forum 117
5.2 South-South interactions at the WSF: another kind of cooperation? 125

6 Making waste (in)visible at the Dakar World Social Forum 137
A Goffmanian perspective on a transnational alter-global gathering
William Herrera, Alice Judell and Clément Paule
6.1 Waste management as stage-setting for a transnational alter-global event 139
6.2 Audiences 147
6.3 Backstage tactics and the boundaries of an institutionalized activist space 152

7 Latin Americans at the World Social Forum in Dakar 157
The relationship between the alter-global movement and the institutional sphere
Isaline Bergamaschi, Tania Navarro Rodríguez and Héloïse Nez
7.1 The singularity of the Latin Americans’ relationship to politics 160
7.2 Explaining Latin American singularity: a specific militant profile 167
7.3 Conclusion 176
8 Groups and organizations at the WSF
Polarities, intermediaries, and hierarchies in the alter-global arena
Johanna Siméant, with Ilhame Hajji
8.1 Between material support of mobilization and ideological indicators: a forum portrait through organizations
8.2 Organizational space and social space
8.3 Understanding the affinities between organizations

9 Stepping back from your figures to figure out more
Ilka Vari-Lavoisier
9.1 Why and how to inquire about “no-replies”
9.2 A panorama of “no-replies” in the WSF survey
9.3 Do the conditions of participation shape the modalities of participation?
9.4 When “no-replies” question the question
9.5 Level of instruction, social capital, and political competence
9.6 Feeling of political competence and nationality
9.7 Conducting surveys in several languages: methodological challenges
9.8 Insurmountable difficulties? Different worlds of meaning
9.9 Conclusion: what no-replies reveal

10 Conclusion
Johanna Siméant

Technical appendix: Surveying an international event through a multinational team

General data on participants

Appendix to Chapter 8 on groups and organizations: Clusters obtained by Ascending Hierarchical Clustering

Questionnaire for participants to the Dakar World Social Forum

Editor’s biographies

Bibliography
Index 265
  Author’s names 265
  Concepts and notions 267
  Organizations, places and public persons’ names 268