Contents

Introduction
Reification and Spectacle: The Timeliness of Western Marxism
   Samir Gandesha and Johan F. Hartle
1. Yiwu: The Cryptogram of the Spectacle
2. The Sequence (1867–1923–1967) and the Parcours

Bibliography

1. Reification as Structural Depoliticization: The Political Ontology of Lukács and Debord
   Johan F. Hartle
1. Mistaking the Social: Fetishism and Social Facts
2. Commodity Fetishism, Reification, Spectacle
3. Aesthetico-Political Interventions, or, How to Overcome Reification?

Bibliography

2. ‘Reification’ between Autonomy and Authenticity: Adorno on Musical Experience
   Samir Gandesha
1. Two Models of Reification
2. Reification and Normativity
3. Musical Experience beyond Autonomy and Authenticity

Bibliography

3. ‘All Reification Is a Forgetting’: Benjamin, Adorno, and the Dialectic of Reification
   Thijs Lijster
1. ‘All Reification Is a Forgetting’
2. Reification and Allegory
3. The Collector
4. Adorno’s Dialectic of Reification
5. Conclusion

Bibliography
4. Utopian Interiors: The Art of Situationist Urbanism from Reification to Play
   Tyrus Miller
   Bibliography
   67

5. ‘The Brilliance of Invisibility’: Tracking the Body in the Society of the Spectacle
   Sudeep Dasgupta
   1. Coordinating the Society of the Spectacle: Debord and Lukács 93
   2. Interception/Identification/Dissolution 97
   3. Suspension/Attention/Dissolution 101
   4. From the Logic of Dissolution to the Dynamic of Identification 103
   5. Conclusion 108
   Bibliography 109

6. Art Criticism in the Society of the Spectacle: The Case of October
   Noortje de Leij
   1. Buchloh’s Spectacle 116
   2. Use Value versus Exchange Value 118
   3. Counter-spectacular Memory 125
   Bibliography 129

7. Spectacle and Politics: Is There a Political Reality in the Spectacle of Society?
   Kati Röttger
   1. Spectacle and Post-democracy 136
   2. The Dilemma of the Spectacle 138
   3. Spectacle as the Condition of Politics 140
   4. In Praise of Theatre 142
   Bibliography 146

8. Reification, Sexual Objectification, and Feminist Activism
   Willow Verkerk
   1. Lukács and Reification 150
   2. Sexual Objectification and Reification: Feminist Problems 154
   3. Performative Agency and Posthuman Feminism 158
   Bibliography 161
9. Reified Life: Vitalism, Environmentalism, and Reification in Guy Debord's The Society of the Spectacle and A Sick Planet
   Joost de Bloois
   1. Dialectical Vitalism: The Society of the Spectacle
   2. Time's Crooked Arrow
   3. A Sick Planet: Life as Revolutionary Wildcard
   Bibliography

10. Images of Capital: An Interview with Zachary Formwalt
   Samir Gandesha and Johan F. Hartle
   Bibliography

Notes

Index

List of figures

Figure 1. Trading stalls of Yiwu in the People's Republic of China. Photo by Samir Gandesha and Johan F. Hartle.
Figure 4.1. Still from Guy Debord's film The Passage of a Few People in a Rather Brief Moment in Time (1959) showing Asger Jorn (second from left, facing viewer), Guy Debord (on far right, holding cigarette), and others seated at a table.
Figure 4.2. Constant Nieuwenhuys, New Babylon. Still from DVD [capture from Maarten Schmidt and Thomas Doebele, Constant, Avant le Départ, 2006].
Figure 4.3. Constant Nieuwenhuys, New Babylon. Still from DVD [capture from Maarten Schmidt and Thomas Doebele, Constant, Avant le Départ, 2006].
Figure 4.4. Constant Nieuwenhuys, New Babylon. Cover of Opus International 27 (September 1971).
Figure 5.1. Edouard Manet's Chemin de Fer, 1873.
Figure 5.2. Georges Seurat's Parade de Cirque, 1887–1888.

Figure 6.3. James Coleman, Box (aharetournabout), 1977. 16mm black & white film with synchronized audio narration, continuous projection. Courtesy of the artist and Marian Goodman Gallery, Paris.

Figure 10.1. Video still from Zachary Formwalt, In Place of Capital (2009), showing a part of one of Henry Talbot’s 1845 photographs of the Royal Exchange in London.

Figure 10.3. View from the press photographers’ platform of the opening and closing bell ceremonial space, Shenzhen Stock Exchange, China. Production still from Zachary Formwalt, In Light of the Arc, 2013.

Figure 10.4. Exterior view of the Shenzhen Stock Exchange in China under construction. Production still from Zachary Formwalt, In Light of the Arc, 2013.

Figure 10.5. Pages in a notebook that Marx kept in 1868, from Zachary Formwalt, Reading the Economist, 2010. The notebook can be found at the International Institute of Social History, Amsterdam.

Figure 10.6. Video still from Zachary Formwalt, A Projective Geometry, 2012.

Figure 10.7. Notes by the colonial administration regarding a petition from the residents of Sekondi. These notes can be found in the National Archives of Ghana, in Accra. Video still from Zachary Formwalt, A Projective Geometry, 2012.

Figure 10.8. Worksite at Shenzhen Stock Exchange. Video still from Zachary Formwalt, Unsupported Transit, 2011.

Figure 10.10. Voice-over microphone in Malmö recording studio. Video still from Zachary Formwalt’s 2005 television program, A Story Called ‘Eurabia’. 