This survey and book is the product of cooperation between researchers at the Centre for Research in International Migration and Ethnic Relations at Stockholm University (CEIFO). We are indebted to our international colleagues within the TIES research network for their collaboration at all stages of the research process: formulating research questions, devising the questionnaire, analysing data and commenting on draft versions of the report. This fruitful cooperation has led to new and exciting research questions concerning the social inclusion of the descendants of migrants. Colleagues at CEIFO participated actively at different stages of the process. We would like to thank Professor Orlando Mella and Dr. Ebba Hedlund for their input during the early stages of the process. Dr. Ali Osman was involved at the later stage of analysis and we would also like to thank him for his contribution. While writing this book, the authors of the different chapters benefited from the knowledge and assistance of senior researchers at CEIFO. We would particularly like to thank Professor Erik Olsson and Professor Per Lundborg for their invaluable critique and suggestions with regard to the various chapters in this book. Our very special thanks go to Associate Professor Lena Schröder, who participated as an external member of the research team and wrote a chapter for the book. The project was financed by The Swedish Council for Working Life and Social Research, for whose support we sincerely express our deep gratitude.
