Popular Music in Southeast Asia

Schulte Nordholt, Henk, Keppy, Peter, Barendregt, Bart

Published by Amsterdam University Press

Schulte Nordholt, Henk, et al.
Popular Music in Southeast Asia: Banal Beats, Muted Histories.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/66638.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/66638

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2371162
Table of Contents

Introduction
- Muted sounds, obscured histories
- Living the modern life
- Four eras
- Research project Articulating Modernity

1 Oriental Foxtrots and Phonographic Noise,
1910s-1940s
- New markets
- The rise of female stars and fandom
- Jazz, race, and nationalism
- Box 1.1 Phonographic noise
- Box 1.2 Dance halls
- Box 1.3 The modern woman

2 Jeans, Rock, and Electric Guitars, 1950s-mid-1960s
- Youth culture
- Moral indignation
- Local industry
- Beat goes local
- Box 2.1 Gangs
- Box 2.2 Blue Jeans
- Box 2.3 Tremolo guitar

3 The Ethnic Modern, 1970s-1990s
- Modern music for the Muslim Malay masses
- Pop history, as we know it
- Subversive sounds
- Making noise in the big melting pot
- What is so modern about the ethnic?
- The sound of longing for home: pop Minang
- Village girl and big city pop diva: The story of Elly Kasim
| Box 3.1 | Disco | 73 |
| Box 3.2 | Dangdut | 74 |
| Box 3.3 | Going abroad (in two songs) | 75 |

4  Doing it Digital, 1990s-2000s

| Musical revolutions: Finally indie-pendent? | 79 |
| Pop, politics, and piety | 80 |
| Asia around the corner | 87 |
| Doing it Digital: Three apparent paradoxes | 90 |
| The Malay Muslim girl-next-door: A deeper conversation with Yuna | 93 |
| Box 4.1 | JKT48 | 96 |
| Box 4.2 | An Indonesian indie song | 97 |
| Box 4.3 | Karaoke discs | 97 |
| Box 4.4 | SoundCloud communities | 98 |

Selected Bibliography

List of Illustrations

1. A Malay dondang sayang song recorded in Singapore by Pagoda Record, subsidiary of Deutsche Grammophon, c. 1935
2. Quranic text interpretation (tafsir) and translation from Arabic to Malay by a female religious expert (ustazah) recorded by Extra Records (His Master’s Voice) in Indonesia, c. 1938
3. Rajuan Irama, an Malay orchestra, c. 1935
4. Two Europeans dressed Filipino-style representing ‘Manila Jazz’, Indonesia, c. 1920s
5. Modern jazz music was also regularly associated with noise, as evidenced by this advertisement for a medicine to combat headaches. Published in periodical D’Orient, Netherlands East Indies, 1936
6 Eurasian Malay opera actor, playwright, director, singer and popular recording artist, P.W.F. Cramer, accompanied by a Malay opera leading lady (sri panggung) from Betawi (present-day Jakarta), standing next to a phonograph equipped with a giant horn, c. 1912

7 Indonesian popular singer Dinah in modern dress and hair fashion, c. 1938. She engaged successfully in kroncong singing competitions in Singapore from 1937 onwards, recorded for HMV in Singapore, and appeared on radio in the Netherlands East Indies in 1940.

8 Brilliantine was an indispensable product for men in the 1950s. It kept the hair well-groomed and gave it the shine.

9 New American dances were tried on the dance floor at social gatherings such as at this Bandung high school party, c. 1957.

10 Fashion-conscious Bandung youth sporting tight jeans, c. 1957

11 Radio Prambors was launched in 1971 in Jakarta. Airing pop music, Prambors was a teen icon in the 1970s-1990s period. Nowadays, Prambors FM is Indonesia's 'No. 1 Hit Music Station'.

12 Sumatran punk youth, 2008

13 Video CD vendor in a market stall

14 #SoundCloud Meetup YK in the Momento Café, Yogyakarta, 26 February 2014