Contents

Who Was That Masked Monk? 13
John P. Sexton and Kisha G. Tracy

The Lone Medievalist: Casting the Net 17
Sarah Barott and Rachel Munson

The Lone Medievalist as Teacher
Breaking Free of the Cloistered Classroom

Not So Lonesome Anymore:
Bridging the Disciplines through Pedagogy 31
Peter Burkholder

Keeping It Old-School on the New Faculty Majority 51
Geoffrey B. Elliott

Interdisciplinary/Team Teaching and the Lone Medievalist 65
Natalie Grinnell

And Gladly Wolde He Teche: The Medievalist
and the History of the English Language Course 71
Robert Kellerman

I Know! Let’s Put on a Show! 79
Robert Stauffer
Perpetual Invention and Performance-Based Research: The Case of The Ballad of Robin Hood and the Potter
Carolyn Coulson

What's the Message?: Building Community through Tolkien's Beowulf
Holly M. Wendt

Why Read That?: Selling the Middle Ages
Diane Cady

A Trip to England: Discovering the Ties between Medievalism and Pop Culture
Danielle Girard, Sarah Huff, Justine Marsella, Alicia Protze, Abbie Rosen, Jacki Teague

The Lone Medievalist as Scholar: Opus Clamantis in Deserto

From the Monk’s Cell to the Professor’s Office
Kisha G. Tracy

Embracing the Medievalist Margin
Alicia Spencer-Hall

The Medievalist’s Soliloquy: Struggles and Advice for Lone Medievalists
Tiffany A. Ziegler

Reflections of an Embarrassed Medievalist
Michael Elam

The Unicorn Learns Accountability
Misty Urban

How to Stop Being a Lonely Medievalist
M. Wendy Hennequin
Blended Medievalist Careers: Staying Optimistic While Balancing Passion and Job Market Realities

Timothy R.W. Jordan and Aubri Anne McVey

A Study of the Unexpected: The Advantages of Being the “Lone Medievalist”

Nikolas O. Hoel

Saga Thing and the Benefits of Podcasting the Medieval

Andrew M. Pfrenger

The Lone Medievalist at Work:
Or, How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Job

Building Your Own Villa

Jane Chance

Twice Marginal and Twice Invisible: On Being the Lone Medievalist Twice in One State

Michelle M. Sauer

Pushing Boundaries: Making the Medieval Relevant through Public History and Engagement On and Off Campus

Amber Handy

Brought to You by Your Friendly Campus Medievalist

Lee Templeton

Down with Dante and Chaucer? Navigating a Great Books Curriculum as a Medievalist

Sarah Harlan-Haughey

Of sondry folk: What I Learned After My First Year as the Lone Medievalist on Campus

Ann M. Martinez
The Collaborative Medievalist
Courtney Rydel

Make Yourself At Home
John P. Sexton

This Eremitic Life

Notes from the North
Laura Saetveit Miles

Being a Medievalist in an A-medieval Country and in a Region Overcrowded with Medieality: Two Stories from Brasil and the Western Balkans
Ardian Muhaj

Is the Academic Medievalist Alone?
Kouky J. Fianu

A Philosopher’s Approach to Being a Lone Medievalist
Pilar Herráiz Oliva

A Lone Medievalist on the Island
Christine E. Kozikowski

Contributors