Bibliographies
Here’s a selection of the most important Chinese texts that appear in this book. They’re listed in stroke order, with the title in Chinese followed by its English language equivalent. Then comes the author, if known, and approximate date. When there’s a useful translation, e.g., by Burton Watson, the entry ends “Trans. Watson” — you’ll find the full reference in the Bibliography of Secondary Works under this person’s name. All Chinese works are available on line.

太平御覽 Taiping yulan. Imperial reader of the Taiping period. Li Fang 李昉 (925–96) et al.
太平廣記 Taiping guangji. Extensive records from the Taiping period. Li Fang 李昉 (925–96) et al.
呂氏春秋 Lüshi chunqiu. The springs and autumns of Mr. Lü. Lü Buwei 呂不韋 (fl. 239 BCE).
易經 Yijing. The classic of change. Trans. Wilhelm.
說文解字 Shuowen jiezi. Explanations of graphs. Xu Shen 許慎 (fl. 100 CE).
漢武帝內轉 Han Wudi neizhuan. The esoteric biography of the Martial Emperor of Han. Sixth century CE but containing earlier material. Trans. Schipper.

Jiu Tangshu. Old history of the Tang. Tenth century CE.