Since the country in which I was born has disintegrated, and since it is still in the jaws of a machine that cuts it and shapes it, I live like a being with a broken memory.

Žarko Radaković, Vampires

It’s done. The divorce. I’ve cut my moorings. I’m adrift and nervous as hell. I think I’ll be okay, unless the International Monetary Fund or the U.N.’s International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia or the Federation of Concerned Mountain Bikers decides to take a hand in molding my character.
