Semites, Iranians, Greeks, and Romans: Studies in their Interactions

Goldstein, Jonathan A.

Published by Brown Judaic Studies

Goldstein, Jonathan A.
Semites, Iranians, Greeks, and Romans: Studies in their Interactions.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/75476

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2616268
Brown Judaic Studies has been publishing scholarly books in all areas of Judaic studies for forty years. Our books, many of which contain groundbreaking scholarship, were typically printed in small runs and are not easily accessible outside of major research libraries. We are delighted that with the support of a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities/Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Humanities Open Book Program, we are now able to make available, in digital, open-access, format, fifty titles from our backlist.

Jonathan A. Goldstein’s, Semitic, Iranians, Greeks, and Romans (1990) is a collection of several of his previously published articles. These articles deal with two themes that have animated much of Goldstein’s scholarly interests, intercultural borrowing and religious resistance to foreign rule. Jonathan Goldstein taught at the University of Iowa for 35 years and passed away in 2004.

This edition incorporates typographical corrections of the original text.

Michael L. Satlow
Managing Editor
October, 2019