Early Rabbinic Civil Law

Lapin, Hayim

Published by Brown Judaic Studies

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/75767

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=262774
Brown Judaic Studies has been publishing scholarly books in all areas of Judaic studies for forty years. Our books, many of which contain groundbreaking scholarship, were typically printed in small runs and are not easily accessible outside of major research libraries. We are delighted that with the support of a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities/Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Humanities Open Book Program, we are now able to make available, in digital, open-access, format, fifty titles from our backlist.

Hayim Lapin’s Early Rabbinic Civil Law and the Social History of Roman Galilee: A Study of Mishnah Tractate Baba’ Mesi’a’ (1996), shows how the rabbis of antiquity both drew on existing practices of civil law while constructing a legal system that also reflected their values and interests.

This edition contains typographical corrections of the original text.

Michael L. Satlow
Managing Editor
October, 2019