Diritto: storia e comparazione

Brutti, Massimo, Somma, Alessandro

Published by Max Planck Institute for Legal History and Legal Theory

Brutti, Massimo and Alessandro Somma.
Diritto: storia e comparazione: Nuovi propositi per un binomio antico.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/75263

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2603189
Contributors

Alfons Aragoneses is Associate Professor of Legal History at the University Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona) and Associate Researcher at the Max Planck Institute for European Legal History (Frankfurt M). He wrote his PhD on the history of comparative law. He has written articles and chapters of books in Castilian, English, French and German on history of Francoist Law. His research interests include Law and dictatorship, history of private law, transitional justice and the link between Law, memory and collective identity. He is the author of Un jurista del Modernismo. Raymond Saleilles y los orígenes del derecho comparado (2009) and Recht im “fin de siècle” (2007).

Eliana Augusti is Assistant Professor of History of Codifications in the Department of Legal Sciences at the University of Salento. She is currently Research Fellow at the Max-Planck-Institut für Ausländisches Öffentliches Recht und Völkerrecht (Heidelberg). Her studies are devoted to the history of international law, Europe and Ottoman Empire in the nineteenth-century; capitulations and consular jurisdictions; history of comparative and colonial law; legal transplant and transnationalism. She is author of Questioni d’Oriente. Europa e Impero Ottomano nel Diritto Internazionale dell’Ottocento (2013), Storie e storiografie dei Consolati in Oriente tra Otto e Novecento (in: Historia et ius, 2017); Peace by Code: Milestones and Crossroads in the Codification of International Law (in: M. Vec and T. Hippler, Paradoxes of Peace in the 19th century Europe, 2015).

Massimo Brutti is Full Professor of Roman Law in the Department of Law at the University La Sapienza of Rome. His research interests range from Roman civil procedural law to the history of legal thinking, with focus on the Historical School and on the Pandectist School. Among his most recent publications are: Vittorio Scialoja, Emilio Betti. Due visioni del diritto civile (2013), Dal contratto al negozio giuridico. Appunti (2013), Interpretare i contratti. La tradizione, le regole (2017).
Antonello Calore is Full Professor of Roman Law in the Department of Law at the University of Brescia, where he was Dean from 2004 to 2010. He is the Coordinator of the Research Project Cuia (2011–2012) between Italy and Argentine and Member of the steering Committee of the Review Bulletino dell’Istituto di Diritto Romano. Calore’s research interests are addressed to “international” Roman law. At present his studies focus on citizenship. Among his publications are: La rimozione del giuramento (1988) and Forme giuridiche del “bellum iustum” (2003).

Salvatore Casabona is Associate Professor of Private Comparative Law and adjunct professor of International Trade Law at the University of Palermo. His research interests run wide through Family law, environmental regulation, and justice, comparative law methodology, mixed jurisdictions, European law, customs law, online gambling regulatory strategies and Internet intermediaries’ contracts. He won visiting and research fellowships from many prestigious institutions in Europe, Latin America and East Asia. His last book is Pedagogia dell’odio e funzione educativa dei genitori – Uno studio di diritto comparato su mafia e radicalization jihadista (2016).

Tommaso dalla Massara is Full Professor of Roman Law and Foundations of European Private Law at the University of Verona. His research interests in the field of Roman, Civil and European law include Procedural law, Sales law, Good faith and Arbitration law. He has published in both Italian and foreign reviews (such as Rivista di diritto civile and Zeitschrift für Gemeinschaftsprivatrecht) and is author of Alle origini della causa del contratto (2004) and of Obbligazioni pecuniarie. Struttura e disciplina dei debiti di valuta (2012).

Giuseppe Franco Ferrari is Full Professor of Constitutional law at the University Bocconi, Milan, where he is the coordinator of the Public law teachings. He is author and editor of about 45 books and 250 articles. He is Director of the Review Diritto Pubblico Comparato Europeo, coeditor of the Comparative Law Review and member of the scientific board of the Reviews Giurisprudenza Costituzionale, Munus and Percorsi Costituzionali. He is vice President of the International Academy of Comparative Law. Among his recent publications are: Nuove Province e Città metropolitane (2016) and Diritto costituzionale comparato (with P. Carrozza and A. Di Giovine, 2014).

Tommaso Edoardo Frosini is Full Professor of Comparative Public Law in the Department of Law at the University Suor Orsola Benincasa of Naples. He is author of many books, the most recent ones being: Liberté Egalité Internet (2016) and Constitución, Democracia y Estado de Derecho (2017). Frosini is President of the Association Diritto pubblico comparato ed europeo and Vice president of the Italian National Research Council; he is coeditor of the Reviews Diritto pubblico comparato ed europeo and Percorsi costituzionali as well as of the Comparative Law Review. Recent publications include Liberté Egalité Internet (2015), Constitución, Democracia y Estado de Derecho (2017) and Diritti e libertà in internet (with O. Pollicino, 2017).

Mauro Grondona is Associate Professor of Private Law in the Department of Law at the University of Genoa. He has intensively written on general private law. Furthermore, his research interests also deal with comparative law and the history of legal thinking. He is author of La clausola risolutiva espressa (1998), L’ordine giuridico dei privati (2008) and Diritto dispositivo contrattuale (2011).

Pier Giuseppe Monateri is Professor of Law at the University of Torino. He is author of The Italian Legal System (with M. Livingstone and F. Parisi, 2015) and editor of Methods of Comparative Law (2012), Comparative Contract Law (2017) and Classics in Comparative Law (with T. Ginsburg and F. Parisi, 2014); Monateri’s research interests include comparative legal history, political philosophy and international relations. Monateri is member of the International Academy of Comparative Law (New York), the Accademia delle Scienze (Bologna) and the Société de Législation Comparée (Paris). He is Honorary President of the Italian Association of Comparative Law.

Matteo Nicolini is Assistant Professor of Comparative Public Law in the Department of Law at the University of Verona. His fields of research include Italian and European constitutional law, federalism and regionalism, judicial review of legislation, Law and literature, African law, Legal geography and legal Linguistics. He is the author of monographs, essays, and articles in Italian, Spanish, and English. His most recent monograph is L’altra Law of the Land. La famiglia giuridica “mista” dell’Africa australe (2016). He is also the editor of several collections, including Law, Territory and Conflict Resolution: Law as a Problem and Law as a Solution (with F. Palermo and E. Milano, 2016).

Luigi Nuzzo is Full Professor of Legal History at the University of Salento and permanent fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt Stiftung. He has been research fellow at the Max Planck Institute for European Legal History, the University of California at Berkeley, the New York University and the European University Institute. His main publications include Origini di una Scienza. Diritto internazionale e colonialismo nel XIX secolo (2012), *Constructing Giovanni Pascuzzi is Full Professor of Comparative Private Law in the Department of Law at the University of Trento. He teaches Civil law, Legal skills, Civil law and cognitive sciences. He is author of several books and among his most recent publications are: Il problem solving nelle professioni legali (2017); Avvocati formano avvocati. Guida all’insegnamento dei saperi forensi (2015); La creatività del giurista (2013); Giuristi si diventa. Guida all’apprendimento delle abilità proprie delle professioni legali (2013); Il diritto dell’era digitale (2012).

Giorgia Pavani is Associate Professor of Comparative Public Law at the University of Bologna. She coordinates the Jean Monnet Project New Policies and Practices for European Sharing Cities (EuCity). She has made extensive academic research in the fields of local government in Italy and on a comparative perspective for the Scuola Superiore della Pubblica Amministrazione Locale (SSPAL). Current research is based mainly on the Public Service Broadcasting and Media Law. She is the author of Radiotelevisioni. Profili storici e comparati (2012). She has edited Municipi d’occidente. Il governo locale in Europa e nelle Americhe (with L. Pegoraro, 2006).

Giovanni Poggeschi is Full Professor of Comparative Public Law at the Department of Law at the University of Salento. His research interests include minority rights, immigration and foreigner law, fiscal federalism, fundamental rights, federalism and regionalism, Spain (in particular Catalonia), France, the Balkans and India. He is author of Language rights and duties in the evolution of public law (2013), Le nazioni linguistiche della Spagna autonómica (2002) and I diritti linguisticci. Un’analisi comparata (2010).

Giorgio Resta is Associate Professor of Comparative Law at the University of Roma Tre. He has been visiting professor at McGill University, EHESS, Paris and at the University of Nagoya. He authored more than 100 publications in the fields of Comparative law, Private law, Legal history, information law and new technologies. Among his most recent books are Diritto privato. Una conversazione (with P. Rescigno and A. Zoppini, 2017); Dignità, persone, mercati (2014); Karl Polanyi. For a New West (2014). He is associate member of Roberto Scarciglia is Full Professor of Comparative Law at the University of Trieste. He was Dean of the Faculty of Political Sciences and Director of the Department of Political and Social Sciences. His work focuses on comparative methodology, transnational dimensions of law, history of law, intercultural and religious studies. He has published on a wide variety of topics, including comparative methodology, comparative constitutional law, Spain, multiculturalism, administrative law in the Balkans, Islamic symbols, global law, legal pluralism, and history of comparative law. Recent publications include Metodi e comparazione giuridica (2016).

Mario Serio is Full Professor of Comparative Private Law at the University of Palermo. He is titular member of the International Academy of Comparative Law. He is author of several volumes, essays and publications on Italian and English law of torts, contracts, obligations and historical foundations of the common law. Mario Serio’s research interests include history and sources of English Law, Constitutional Law, Human Rights, abuse of process, property and legal method. He is author of Nuova Introduzione allo studio del diritto inglese (2016); Il danno da irragionevole durata del processo (2009) and Studi comparatistici sulla responsabilità civile (2007).

Bernardo Sordi is Full Professor of Legal History at the Department of Law at the University of Florence. His research interests include constitutional and administrative history in the modern and contemporary age. Among his publications are: Giustizia e amministrazione nell’Italia liberale (1985); *Tra Emanuele Stolfi is Full Professor of Roman Law at the University of Siena (where he formerly directed the Doctorate School Ius publicum Europaeum). His research interests include the ideas of equity, good faith, citizenship, freedom and interpretation between the Greek and Roman world. He is the author of many works about legal thinking and methodology of the jurists (especially in the Roman Empire), legal logic and argumentation, for example: Introduzione allo studio dei diritti greci (2006); Operazioni elementari di discorso e sapere giuridico (with L. Lantella and M. Deganello, 2007); Il diritto, la genealogia, la storia. Itinerari (2010); Quando la Legge non è solo legge (2012).

Vincenzo Zeno-Zencovich is Full Professor of Comparative Law at the University of Roma Tre where he teaches Comparative legal systems and Eu Transport law. He is also chairman of the Italian Association of Comparative Law. He has written extensively in the fields of torts, European private law, media and ICT law. He is the author or editor (together with Giorgio Resta) of several articles and books concerning the relationship between contemporary historical events and legal institutions. His most recent works are available, in open access, on the SSRN and on http://romatrepress.uniroma3.it, including Comparative Legal Systems. A Short Introduction (2017).
This page intentionally left blank.